Convention Events

YOU LEARNED this by heart when a little boy:

"And the might of the Gentile, unsmote by the sword, hath melted like snow in the glance of the Lord."

That applies to John W. Davis, candidate for the Democratic nomination.

He was running well, his nomination seemed probable, when Mr. Bryan said in substance: "Mr. Davis is the lawyer of J. Pierpont Morgan. No court would allow him to sit on the jury in a case affecting Mr. Morgan's interests. The people don't want him as judge and jury in the White House, where so many J. Pierpont Morgan questions are settled."

MR. BRYAN spoke kindly of Mr. Davis, but when he had finished, that gentleman's chances, "unsmote by the sword," had melted like snow, in the glance of W. J. Bryan.

If you want to know what Mr. Bryan can do to a candidate, ask Mr. Alton B. Parker. He knows.

THE VICE-PRESIDENCY may prove more important than the Presidential nomination as regards the coming election. If Senator Walsh would take second place, he might pull to victory any one of half a dozen men as head of the ticket. Walsh's friends say "No" to second place.

THERE IS some "Ralston and Smith" talk. But Al Smith's friends say that he wouldn't take second place either.

A McADOO AND WALSH ticket would have an excellent chance to win, and perhaps no other ticket, at all likely to be named, would have any chance against Coolidge. But the Al Smith men mean to kill McAdoo, and Walsh probably could not be persuaded.

McADOO HOLDS on remarkably considering that the Democratic convention thus far has been an attempt to kill McAdoo rather than to fight Republicans.

THE HISSING of Mr. Bryan from the galleries yesterday will probably postpone for some time "the next Democratic convention in New York city." It isn't the city's fault, but hissing any but the local candidate doesn't suit the delegates.

GEORGE HARVEY, listening in in Washington, says the Democrats are about to commit suicide. A few, much older than George Harvey, believe that the nomination of a reactionary at this convention, and that's the kind of a nomination that is planned, might put an end to the Democratic party.

If La Follette ran he would take at least as many Democratic votes as Republican.

A LADY GOT half a vote for the Presidency. Her name is Mrs. Carol Miller of Pennsylvania. That's one interesting item.

A New York taxi driver has fitted up a radio set in his taxi. The "fare" bound uptown can hear as he goes what the convention is doing.

TWENTY-ONE days hence Mr. Coolidge will be officially notified that he is nominated. He seems to suspect it, and thanks to his Secretary of the Treasury, Mellon, who shows him how taxes can be cut, and his Attorney-General, Stone, who prosecutes fifty-time millionaires, as though they had not a dollar, Mr. Coolidge is piling up votes without waiting for his notification.

THE BOOM in grain continues. Wheat, for July, September and December, was strong yesterday, closing higher than the day before. On high prices for wheat a Republican can climb into the Presidency, as Jack climbed up the beanstalk.

If you gamble you are foolish and will get hurt. But watch the grain markets and you will see some fine "team work."

SEEK CAUSE IN DEATH OF AIKEN GIRL

Missing R. I. Child Found in Swamp With a Fractured Skull; Autopsy Held

Providence, July 3.—The long search for Baby Viola Aiken, three, has ended.

With a double crack gaping in the back of the skull, the body of the girl who disappeared from North Smithfield on May 24 was found in a swamp, half a mile from Mowry farm, from which she vanished.

The crack in the skull is accepted by the authorities as bearing out their contention that the baby girl was murdered and her body then disposed of. An autopsy was performed on the body today in an endeavor to learn the cause of death.

Edgar Mowry, owner of the farm where little Viola was staying with her mother in North Smithfield, made the find while out shooting crows in a swamp, half a mile from his home.

ALMOST A SKELETON.

Attracted by buzzing flies and a bad odor, the farmer went to a spot in the swamp and there saw the body, sprawling face down in the mud, and little more than a skeleton.

The shoes and stockings had been removed and were beside the body. The clothing was pulled up around the head. The spot was only a few feet from where hundreds of searchers for the girl had beaten through the woodland.

Mowry lost no time in summoning Chief of Police Allaire. The latter soon arrived, Attorney General Herbert Carpenter was summoned from Providence. It was the latter who first directed the attention of the authorities to the cracks visible on the child's skull.

Soon hundreds of people from this town and surrounding towns had swarmed to the section. Chief Allaire and his men had great difficulty in keeping the curious from the spot where the body was found.

It was those very spectators who had aided in the fruitless search of more than a month that followed the disappearance of the child on May 24 last.

SHAW'S STAGE BRIDE NURSES HIS FATHER

HILDA BURT SHAW

Robert Gould Shaw, 2nd, millionaire, is seriously ill at his Boulders Farm, Newton Centre, so Gould Shaw, the son, and his bride, Hilda Burt of "Polly" fame, came up from Pinehurst to aid on caring for him. Boston society is calling with the double purpose of paying their condolences to the father and getting a peek at the new addition to their ranks from the footlights.

SHAW'S ACTRESS BRIDE COMES TO NEWTON

Grandees and grandames of Boston society are making frequent pilgrimages to Boulder Farm in Newton Centre. There are two reasons.

The first is that Robert Gould Shaw, 2d, millionaire and society leader, is seriously ill at his home there, and society wishes to offer its condolences.

The second is that young Gould Shaw, son of the master of Boulder Farm, has come up from Pinehurst, N. C., to be near his father, and has brought his bride, who used to be Hilda Burt of the "Poppy" show. Society wishes to get a peek at her.

Incidentally the verdict of the matrons who decide the destinies of social aspirants seems to be all in favor of the young Mrs. Shaw, who will one day be a queen of the exclusive set in her own right.

HOGAN JAILED ON BRIBERY CHARGES

William N. Hogan, a former city councillor of Cambridge, was arrested today on a writ of capias and immediately began serving a one-year term in the House of Correction for accepting a bribe.

Last January Hogan was convicted of taking a $300 bribe from Abe Hyde, a Cambridge business man, in return for his influence in getting a building permit. He filed exceptions, was granted a stay of sentence and was released on bail. Recently the Supreme Court overruled him and affirmed his conviction.

He was to have appeared in Middlesex Superior Court yesterday for sentence, and when he did not Judge Whiting issued the writ of capias.

GIRL RISKS LIFE; FOILS KIDNAPER

Springfield Miss Leaps From Speeding Auto; Police Are Seeking Would-Be Abductor

Springfield, July 3.—Miss Isabella Bacheller, twenty-two-year-old West Springfield girl, risked death by leaping from a speeding automobile near Agawam bridge today when a man, so police say, tried to kidnap her.

Bruised and bleeding from many cuts the Bacheller girl told her story to a police officer. The latter conferred with Police Court Judge Wallace I. Heady, seeking a warrant for the man's arrest.

"I went to this man's store from my home at No. 515 New Bridge street to make a few purchases," Miss Bacheller said. "His automobile was outside the store. He offered to drive me home and I accepted. I got into the car with him and he started in the direction of my home.

"When we reached a point opposite my house he failed to stop or slow down. Instead he speeded up his car and drove furiously out of the neighborhood toward Agawam bridge.

"I screamed and demanded that he stop immediately and let me out. He paid no attention to me and I decided to jump out of the car when it was evident that he was running off with me."

WILLIAMS BEATEN, U. S. LAST HOPE GONE

Wimbledon, Eng., July 3.—The hopes of the Americans to capture the British lawn tennis title were shattered today when R. Norris Williams, 2d, lone survivor, was beaten in the semi-final round by Rene Lacoste, French expert. The scores: 6—1, 3—6, 6—3, 6—3.

U. S. WORLD PLANE HURT AT AMBALA

London, July 3 (Universal Service).—The American round-the-world fliers have arrived at Ambala, in the northern part of India.

One of the airplanes has been crippled by a leaky cylinder and a new one is being brought by airplane from Lahore.

U. S. GIRL TENNIS STARS WINNERS

Wimbledon, July 3.—Miss Helen M. Wills and Mrs. George Wightman, United States, defeated Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, 8-6, 6-4, in their semi-final match in the women's doubles.

COAKLEY JURY ASKS RULINGS

Twice Seek Instructions From Judge Today; Are Haggard After All-Night Session

Twice today the jury trying Daniel R. Coakley and William J. Corcoran for alleged conspiracy filed in upon Judge Whiting in Middlesex Superior Court and asked for further instructions.

They looked very weary. Their eyes were hollow and some of them nodded even while the Judge explained details of the law.

Their first appearance this morning, after breakfast, was at 10:25 when they announced they wanted to know how to interpret the word "inference" and how to treat certain counts in the indictments.

"Inference is a word that is closely related to circumstantial evidence," said Judge Whiting. Robinson Crusoe used it when, seeing human footprints on his island, he decided a man was there. You are entitled to draw inferences from facts and you can accept proof by inference."

Regarding the indictments, he told them they were to consider only Counts 1, 2, 3 and 8 in each indictment and the first count in the second indictment. The jurors were before him only three or four minutes.

Shortly after noon they appeared again to ask whether evidence affecting Phyllis Allen and Daniel H. Sugrue could be considered in the Coakley-Corcoran case. The Judge said it could, and explained the law. At 2 o'clock the jury still was out.

Judge Whiting, in his charge, stated that four different verdicts were possible, namely, acquittal of both defendants on all indictments, conviction of both defendants on all in-

47th Ballot Broke Record Since Days of the Civil War

All endurance records made since the Civil War have been shattered by the Democratic National Convention of 1924, which went into its fiftieth ballot at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

In 1920 it took forty-four ballots to unite the conventions on James M. Cox of Ohio. In 1912 forty-six ballots were required to nominate Woodrow Wilson. Those were two of the longest conventions of recent years.

To break all records, however, the convention now in progress must go to sixty ballots, for in 1860 it was not until the fifty-ninth that the delegates agreed on a candidate—Stephen Douglass—to oppose a young Republican known to his friends as Abe Lincoln. That the 1860 record will be broken seemed certain as the fiftieth ballot of the 1924 meeting began.

BATTLES 9 BARBERS; IS FREED BY COURT

Walter Carlson, of massive build, has returned to the backwoods of Maine, glad there are only ten barbers in Pasquale's place in Haymarket square. Walter protested Pasquale's charge of 95 cents for a shave and massage and a mix-up followed. When it was over Carlson was under the nine other barbers. In Court today Pasquale appeared with three stitches in an eye wound and Carlson was badly battered. In a compromise, Carlson's drunk case was filed and he went home.

SENATOR'S TOTAL UP TO 57

Mississippi Deserts Californian and Casts Its Block to Indiana Candidate

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3.—The totals of the 49th ballot were McAdoo 462½, Smith 290½, John W. Davis 65½, Ralston 57, Underwood 42, Robinson 45, Glass 25, Cox 53, Ritchie 16½, Saulsbury 8, Governor Davis 2, Walsh 1 and Owen 4.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3.—Senator Ralston of Indiana was given the solid vote of the Mississippi delegation on the forty-ninth ballot today and he began to pick up scattered groups in other delegations as well.

It was apparent that Thomas Taggart was starting to give his candidate a "ride" in the hope that he would break the deadlock.

The switch of the Mississippi delegation was another defection from the McAdoo ranks. The twenty delegates had been supporting the former Treasury Secretary persistently since they went to him yesterday.

Before the Mississippi twenty slid into the Ralston column he had taken five from John W. Davis in Illinois and one from Cox in Minnesota.

REFUSES TO QUIT.

William G. McAdoo was unable to hold his "strength above the 500 mark, reached last night and slipped back during the first four ballots today to around 484 votes, where he lingered.

Oklahoma left his standard again

OKLAHOMA TRIES TO SWING TO RALSTON

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3.—When Oklahoma cast its twenty votes for Senator Robinson on the fiftieth ballot in the Democratic Convention today it was challenged by a member of the delegation who demanded that the delegates be polled as the poll of the Oklahoma delegation proceeded it, developed that the row was over a proposal to switch from Robinson to Ralston. Ten poll showed nine for Ralston and ten for Robinson and the twenty votes were cast for the latter.

AUTOPSY ON AIKEN GIRL'S BODY HELD TO FIND CAUSE OF DEATH

CONVINCED CHILD IS SLAIN

one of the early arrivals on the scene, summoned an undertaker and ordered him to remove the body to his establishment in preparation for an autopsy.

PROSECUTOR ON SCENE.

The undertaker was about to remove the remains when Attorney-General Carpenter, who had been summoned hurriedly, arrived on the scene and forbade the removal of the body.

Attorney-General Carpenter, wishing to have an autopsy performed on the body at once, attempted to summon Drs. McGill and Griffin, medical examiners of Providence, but learned that they were out of the State on their vacations.

The attorney-general then ordered Medical Examiner Wilcox and Dr. Edgar F. Hamlin of North Smithfield to conduct the autopsy as soon as possible. They were expected to do so at daybreak.

Dr. Hamlin, making superficial examination of the remains, expressed the opinion that the injury on the child's skull did not look natural. One of the cracks extended from the top of the head to the base of the back of the skull, while the other extended to one side from the centre of the upper crack.

FATHER WEEPS.

There occurred a touching scene when John F. Aiken, father of the child, arrived at the spot and viewed the remains of his daughter.

His eyes dim and his voice shaking with emotion, Aiken explained: "Oh, God! If only the culprits who caused this were in the same condition as my baby."

Shortly after Baby Viola's mysterious vanishing, her mother, Mrs. Viola Mitchell Aiken, and James Graham, farm laborer for Mowry, were both arrested on a statutory charge. They will be tried next Wednesday on this charge.

Mrs. Aiken is in jail in default of $2,500 bail; Graham, however, supplied $1,500 bail and secured his release.

N. Y. STATE TROOPERS GUARD KLAN PARADE

Binghamton, N. Y., July 3.—The first session of the Kolero of the Ku Klux Klan takes place this afternoon. Delegates are arriving on every train and accommodations have been provided in many cottages on the grounds. A meeting of district Kleagles was held followed by a conference between the Kleagles, exalted cyclops and secretaries of the various units. The grounds are closed to the public and only members of the Klan will be admitted. State troopers will assist the police in guarding the participants in the Klan parade.

RED CROSS TAKES OVER TORNADO AID

Cleveland, O., July 3.—The relief committee appointed by Governor A. V. Donahey on its return from Lorain voted to turn all relief work in the storm area over to the National Red Cross.

The Red Cross officials announced this would be taken over at daylight tonight, and the organization would donate $50,000 to the relief fund in addition to carrying all overhead costs of relief work.

BOSTON'S POPULAR SPECIALTY SHOP

Public Announcement

Open Saturdays During July and August

Thousands of men and women go through Boston on Saturday on their way to some Summer resort. It is a great accommodation to them to be able to do some shopping while passing through the city. As all department stores are closed Saturdays during July and August, we have decided to keep our store open as a convenience to the public. Every store owes the public something, and we believe it will appreciate our efforts in this direction. In return for working Saturdays, every clerk in our store will be given, in addition to their regular vacation, an additional vacation equivalent to every Saturday they work.

MOTHER LAUDS AMERICAN FOR FINDING BOY

A scar and a small coat in the left eye were the marks that told Mrs. Clarence Smith of Dighton, Mass., today beyond a doubt the boy found in Chicago thirteen months ago, was her son, Russell, kidnaped from her home five years ago.

It was through the agencies of the Boston American and the Chicago Evening American the long missing youngster was restored to his mother. Today the mother telegraphed her gratitude to the Boston American.

In April, 1919, the Smith boy, then four years of age, walked out of his home in West Dighton. He failed to return and although the entire country was searched and thousands of dollars were spent by the parents, no trace of the boy was ever found.

ONLY DIM CLUE.

Thirteen months ago the police of Chicago found the youngster, in a daze, at the State and Madison streets. The boy remembered nothing. He could not talk for a long time because of a nervous condition.

The boy was placed in a boarding home by the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society. Recently out of the dim memories of the past, the youngster, now nine years old, remembered that he had once lived at Taunton, about four miles from Dighton.

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was notified and the Boston American published the story of the boy's condition.

CALLS ON AMERICAN.

Mrs. Smith read the story. For years she had been grasping at straws. She visited the office of the Boston American and was given a letter to the Chicago Evening American, and through that paper was placed in touch with the boy.

The scar and the coat in the left eye made identification positive. The boy did not remember his mother, but the mother's identification was so complete that today Judge Victor Arnold in Juvenile Court in Chicago arranged to grant Mrs. Smith the custody of her son.

Notoriety Caused by the Suit Against Clubman Leads the Landlord to Evict Sisters

New York, July 3.—Katharine and Charlotte, picturesque Poillon sisters, are in solitary confinement. At least, that's what I gathered today.

"Not at home," said "They do not live here now. The only answers to orders at No. 2 E. 39th street.

Eviction is said to be the reason for the change of address which probably will occur today—eviction because of unfavorable publicity gained by Katharine in the libel suit for $100,000 against W. M. Fleishmann, rich clubman, whom she charges attacked her March 4.

NINE RECESS COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

President Frank G. Allen of the Senate and Speaker Alvah B. Loring Young of the House today announced the make-up of nine important recess committees authorized at the last session of the Legislature.

The list includes:

For the readjustment of Boston into wards: Senators Henry S. Clark, William S. Youngman, John W. McCormick; Representatives Davis R. Kenniston, Carroll L. Mead, Martin Hays, William D. Lancaster, George L. Gilman, John I. Fitzgerald, Jesse H. Drew, Richard M. Walsh, all of Boston.

Problems relating to the control, supervision and regulation of motor vehicles: Senators John W. Haigis of Greenfield and Charles M. Austin of Somerville; Representatives James D. Bentley of Swampscott, Frank W. Eaton of Brockton, John E. Thayer, jr., of Lancaster, Francis E. Cassidy of Webster, Jeremiah J. Healey of Natick.

Methods of financing additions, extensions and improvements of the Boston Elevated Street Railway as well as to the advisability of terminating public control of the road: Senators Charles C. Warren of Arlington, James A. Moran of Manchfield, Edward J. Cox of Boston; Representatives Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, George L. Richards of Malden, Harrison H. Atwood of Boston, Francis W. K. Smith of Somerville, Francis X. Coyne of Boston, Francis J. Garvey of Boston.

$10,000 FIRE IN MATTAPAN BLOCK

The one-story tenement house and business block at Nos. 1612-1616 Rose Hill avenue, Mattapan, was saved by a fire of unknown origin early today that caused damage estimated at $10,000 and required two alarms.

The fire started in the home of P. A. Proctor at No. 1612 and drove the Proctor family to the street.

The blaze then spread to the Leslie Candy Company at No. 1612A and thence to the A. & P. store next door. Considerable water damage was caused in the J. P. Weldon provision store at No. 1616 by firemen in their efforts to prevent the fire from reaching there.

BONI AND COUNTESS SCOFF AT ROMANCE

Paris, July 3.—"I have no intention of marrying anybody. My plan is the good of both sons for an annulment of my marriage is purely and simply to end an embarrassing state of affairs through which my own wife is actually married to another man."

This was the statement today of Count Boni de Castellane, former husband of Anna Gould. Following this declaration, the Baroness de Forest said: "Please deny all reports of my approaching marriage to Count Boni de Castellane or anyone else."

SPRING CROP OF PIGS FALLS OFF 8,000,000

Washington, July 3.—A decrease of about 8,000,000 pigs in the Spring crop in the corn belt is indicated in the June pig survey of the Department of Agriculture. The survey shows that the flood of hog production in the corn belt that reached its height in the Spring pig crop of 1922, is now rapidly receding and has about reached a normal level, the report states.

KU KLUX MEETS IN FITCHBURG FIELD

Fitchburg, July 3.—One hundred or more members of Fitchburg's branch of the Ku Klux Klan held a secret meeting in an open field on Brown's Hill here.

Guards in the white robes of the Klan were on duty at the gate to the field.

EX-SERVICE MAN'S DEATH PROBED

New Britain, Ct., July 3.—Police are investigating the death of William A. Walsh, twenty-six, ex-service man and local athlete, whose body was found in Erwin place, by a milkman, with the neck broken and face and body badly bruised.

K. OF C. ASKED TO AID IN CASE OF BRANDING

Supreme Council Sought to Interest U. S. Officials in Burrows' Affair

Rochester, N. H., July 3.—The Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus in the United States has been formally notified by the local council of the circumstances surrounding the branding of Nelson R. Burrows, past grand knight of Rochester, with the symbols "KKK" on forehead and chest.

Federal authorities will be asked to solve the mystery in the branding, it is expected by local members of the Catholic order. Inasmuch as Burrows' story takes in sections of the States, it is believed the Federal authorities will have more freedom of action in an investigation than New Hampshire officers can.

The national council of the Knights of Columbus, is urged by the local council to thoroughly sift Burrows' tale that he was tortured and branded by hooded members of the Ku Klux Klan.

P. O. INVESTIGATION.

United States post office inspectors will be asked to investigate the Ku Klux Klan note received by Basil Blake, East Rochester newspaper man, which referred to himself, Burrows and Past Grand Knight Bradford as due for trouble. The note was printed on a New Haven mail envelope, the label of which read Lowell on the day Burrows was branded and released. A line was drawn through Burrows' name.

The first move in the State's investigation comes tomorrow when Sheriff Stephen W. Scruton of Dover will be accompanied by Burrows, if the latter is well enough, on a tour of search of the vicinity of Plaistow and Seabrook, N. H., and Manchester communities near Haverhill, in order to give the branded man a chance to recognize landmarks which may aid the authorities in finding the shack where he says the branding took place.

KNIGHTS TO AID.

As it is a holiday, some members of the local K. of C. lodge will spend July 4 aiding the sheriff in his search of that district. Other knights from Lawrence and Haverhill and Dover and Somersworth, N. H., as well as the public in general, are expected to be out in force to help.

Meanwhile Attorney-General Irving J. Hinckley of New Hampshire is preparing to investigate the case, and County Solicitor Clyde Keefe of Dover will get busy, he has announced as soon as he returns from the Democratic convention.

Following their marriage a few weeks ago Shaw and his bride went to his farm at Pinehurst, N. C., where he has been leading the life of a gentleman farmer and the former "Poppy" girl has been presiding as lady of the manor.

Indeed, the girl abroad that they were "roughing it" on their honeymoon—doing their own work and running their own errands—their appearance today belied that. Neither had calloused hands to show. The bridegroom, who is seventy years old, was resplendent in a silk shirt; the bride wore a pretty morning dress.

WELCOMED TO FAMILY.

They will remain at Boulder Farm until there is a change for the better in the condition of young Gould's father. The former chorus girl, who was understudying the star of "Poppy" when she deserted the footlights for the home fires, will help nurse her father-in-law back to health.

The romance of the chorus girl and the millionaire's son was unique in one way. If there was parental opposition, it was not advertised. The girl was welcomed as soon as her in-laws saw and talked with her.

CIGARETTE CAUSES FIRE IN MARKET

Fire caused by a carelessly thrown lighted cigarette did considerable damage to the Alfred Sears Provision Market at No. 14 and 15 Faneuil Hall Market and for a time threatened other stores in the market district. Several hundred dollars worth of provisions were destroyed by smoke and water as a result of the blaze.

STUDENT DIES IN MEDFIELD WRECK

Charles Clark, Jr., twenty years old, a senior at Northeastern University and a resident of Medfield, was instantly killed and George Fairbanks, twenty years old, son of Louis Fairbanks, also of Medfield, was probably fatally injured when an automobile owned by Fairbanks turned turtle about a quarter of a mile from Medfield square.

Russian Churches to Close From Lack of Attendance

Leningrad, July 3.—Church attendance in Bolshevik Russia has decreased to such an extent that many churches are on the point of closing their doors. The religious authorities say that contributions from the congregations are so meagre that they scarcely are able to pay the slender salaries of the clergymen.

St. Isaac's Cathedral, the most magnificent in all Russia, is a striking example. Finding the collection baskets almost empty each Sunday, the governing body has decided to convert the superb edifice, erected at a cost exceeding $11,000,000, into a museum and offer it to the "Old Petrograd Society," a non-religious organization.

COAKLEY JURY IS STILL IN DEADLOCK

dictments, acquittal of one defendant on all counts and the conviction of the other defendant on all counts.

Judge Whiting reminded the jurors that they would probably never be called upon to determine a case of greater importance to the community. He referred to the gravity of the issues and to their solemn responsibility.

"It would be an extremely sad outcome," he said, "if justice should fail and the protection of the community, by adequate enforcement of the law, be defeated, whether by a wrongful conviction or acquittal. A true verdict will receive the gratitude of the community and show that we are living under a government of laws where all men are equal.

"It doesn't make any difference whether your finding is a conviction or an acquittal. It is your sworn duty to find the truth. By so doing you will receive the approval of your conscience. It is your duty to yourselves, to your country and your God."

Judge Whiting's charge lasted two hours and forty minutes. He finished at 4:40 p. m. and the jury retired during a bench conference which counsel for the defendants requested additional instructions. The jury was recalled for the purpose and after going out to supper began deliberations at 5:30 p. m.

District Attorney Reading argued five hours and fifteen minutes, leading Attorney John P. Feeney in his summing up for Coakley by nineteen minutes.

Judge Whiting warned the jurors that they must not convict on suspicion, but that they must reach a degree of certainty—proof beyond reasonable and a moral certainty.

"You must use the intelligence that God has given you, as you do in your daily avocations," he added. "The fact that neither defendant has testified is not to be considered against them. Nor are you to concern yourselves about claims that certain persons were not called to testify.

"As to the testimony of an accomplice you must determine how far he should be believed. As to the question of immunity to Harry E. Levenson you are to consider that solely as to its bearing on his credibility."

Judge Whiting stated that members of the bar were officers of the court and enjoyed the confidence of the public. He declared that lawyers had a right to charge what was a fee which a client wished to pay, if agreed upon.

BOSTON DOCTOR DIES IN LONDON

Liverpool, July 3.—Dr. Robert William Lovett of Boston died at the residence of Sir Robert Jones, an eminent Liverpool surgeon, after a few days' illness. Dr. Lovett was a specialist in orthopedic surgery and had practiced in Boston since 1886. He was sixty-three years old. He was professor of orthopedic surgery at Harvard University and had been consulting orthopedic surgeon to the New York State Department of Health. Dr. Lovitt was a major in the Medical Corps, U. S. A., during the World War.

Ford Runs 57 Miles on Gallon of Gasoline

With Stransky's Automatic Device

A new automatic self-regulating device has been invented by John A. Stransky, 2729 Fourth St., Pukwana, South Dakota, with which automobiles have made from 40 to 57 miles on a gallon of gasoline. It removes all carbon and prevents spark plug trouble and overheating. It can be installed by anyone in five minutes. Mr. Stransky wants agents and is willing to send a sample at his own risk. Write him today.

FINE AND JAIL FOR RIDE WITH ANOTHER'S WIFE

Peabody Man, Taking Mrs. Hunt for Sidecar Excursion, Chased by Her Husband

A stonewall and a pursuing husband have proved the temporary undoing of Roger Durkee of Peabody, while the "woman in the case" has a fractured skull as the reminder of an alleged joy ride.

This was unfolded today in Lynn Court before Judge Reeves, who sentenced Durkee to jail for fifteen days for operating his motorcycle in a manner endangering lives and imposed a fine of $25 for operating it without a license.

According to the evidence Durkee took Mrs. Annie Hunt of No. 129 Broad street, Lynn, for a ride in the sidecar of his motorcycle on June 18.

They were proceeding along Lynnfield road, Wendell Hunt, husband of Mrs. Hunt appeared. The Hunts had been living apart since April, but Mr. Hunt became interested and followed the motorcycle.

After a short and speedy spurt Durkee lost control of the motorcycle, which crashed into a stonewall and pitched over a fifty-foot embankment.

Mrs. Hunt, who is the mother of three children, was taken to the Lynn Hospital where her injuries were treated.

GIRL DROPS THREE FLOORS; IS UNHURT

Three-year-old Margaret Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Gibson, of No. 33 Grove street, Belmont, escaped death when she slipped through an opening of a piazza, where a board had loosened, and plunged three stories to the ground. Although two physicians examined the little girl, no injuries were discovered.

Seven Boys Slain by Butcher in Berlin Suburb

Berlin, July 3 (Universal Cable).—A gruesome discovery was made by the police of Hanover when they arrested a butcher named Harrman on the charge of wholesale murder.

According to the police, Harrman has confessed to having murdered at least seven boys and young men in his home. The arrest followed the finding of a sack containing five skulls and bones of several persons near Hanover. The police believe he sold the human flesh as meat.

WEYMOUTH TEA ROOM BURNED; LOSS $5,000

Fire from an undetermined cause in the exclusive barroom of John Bryant on Washington street, Weymouth Landing, early today, swept through the structure before the arrival of the fire department and reduced it to ashes with a loss estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000.

Mr. Bryant, his wife and his daughter were away at the time. Fire department officials believe the blaze started near the chimney as the whole house was ablaze before their arrival. The place was known as the "Old O'Brien Estate" and was patronized by motorists going through to the South Shore.

BIG "NIGHT BEFORE" AT PARAGON PARK

Tonight's the night.

At midnight tonight Manager Joseph Stone of Paragon Park will put on a "Night Before" celebration at the famous resort at Nantasket Beach.

Dancing and fireworks will feature the carnival, together with special attractions, the show lasting until 4 o'clock tomorrow morning.

A real old-fashioned "night before the 4th" celebration is promised, and a tremendous throng is expected to be on hand.

R. I. BANKERS PAY $100,000 ON STATE WAGES

Nearly 700 Employes Receive Checks on Account of Salaries Now Long Overdue

Providence, July 3.—It was estimated today that between 600 and 700 men and women employed by the State could by nightfall today buy their children fireworks and refreshments for the family dinner table tomorrow.

They received checks from the associated bankers of the State, as a loan in anticipation of the Democratic filibuster ending some time, some kind of an appropriation bill being passed, and wages overdue for four months, be remitted.

About $100,000 in the aggregate reached workers in State maintained institutions today. Superintendents of the different institutions handed over the checks to individuals and the individual in turn surrendered a correctly executed order on his pay. Workers of the State said they would charge no interest on such loans.

Memory of the oldest inhabitant in Rhode Island strains itself to the breaking point to recall a time before in the history of Rhode Island banking when a bank or banker turned loose a sum of money as a loan without exacting as much interest as the State's usury laws permitted.

$40,000 Realty Deal

ACTOR KEITH SAYS HE DIDN'T FLAUNT LOVE FOR MISS RAMBEAU

SAYS WIFE IS 39; HE ONLY 23

"Beau Ian" Claims Marriage Result of Miss Yurka's Solicitation

New York, July 3—Ian Keith, the actor, has telegraphed from Los Angeles a denial of the charges made by his actress wife, Blanche Yurka, in her counter suit for separation, that he abandoned her because of infatuation for Marjorie Rambeau.

He says he is only 33 and that his wife is at least 39.

Declaring that his marriage to Miss Yurka was the result of her solicitation, Keith denied his wife's charges that he over "openly made love to Miss Marjorie Rambeau or openly flaunted my attachment for her, thereby causing my wife humiliation."

Blanche Yurka

Miss Yurka had charged him with showing his affections for Miss Rambeau at a party in New York while Keith was appearing with Miss Rambeau in a production of "As You Like It." Keith stated in his telegram that the party was suggested by his wife and that at the party he "treated Miss Rambeau only with the respect which her position in the theatre demanded."

ADMITS PHOTOGRAPHS.

Replying to his wife's charges that he had photographs of Miss Rambeau in his dressing room, Keith admitted that he had her pictures there along with photographs of other actresses and actors, as is customary among the profession.

Arguments on Miss Yurka's application for $250 a week and $5,000 as counsel fees were heard in the Supreme Court. Keith in his telegram asserted that Miss Yurka had earned from $300 to $500 a week. Decision on the application was reserved.

OFFERED TO SETTLE.

In court it was brought out that in May, 1924, after young Keith and his wife decided that either a divorce or separation was imminent, he offered to settle with her for $5,000 to be paid on installments of $75 a week.

He also offered her $1,000 counsel fees. All this if she would consent to a separation or divorce and release him from all other claims for support.

But she refused. Then papers in Keith's separation suit were served on her when she was in "Man and the Masses."

A party at the Club Royale, given for Miss Rambeau and Ivan Keith following their opening in "As You Like It," April 23, 1923, is referred to in the affidavit of Miss Yurka, her sister Mila and Mrs. Oulda Fitzmaurice, an actress friend of all the players.

IGNORED HIS WIFE.

This party marked Miss Yurka's first break with Marjorie Rambeau. She herself had helped arrange it, as she then greatly admired Miss Rambeau.

After the party the guests went to Mrs. Fitzmaurice's apartment in the Ambassador Hotel. Miss Yurka, her sister, Mila, and Mrs. Fitzmaurice say, young Keith became drunk and openly made love to Miss Rambeau.

He ignored his wife and escorted Miss Rambeau home, leaving Miss Yurka to provide herself with an escort.

Young Keith denies all this and says he was never drunk in his life and never told his wife he loved another woman and wished she would divorce him as she charges.

V. EDWIN ULMER NOT CONVICTED

Yesterday the Boston American reported to W. Edwin Ulmer, an attorney, as having been convicted of using thousands of dollars from Mrs. Mary Hand in "high-class confidence schemes." The statement was in error.

Mr. Ulmer was indicted a few years ago charged with making false returns to the commissioner of corporations. One of the indictments charged that he conspired to deprive Mrs. Hand and others financially interested in the estate of the late Henry M. Weed of their property rights in the Walnut Rose Cemetery. He was found guilty by a jury and sentenced for six months in jail, but immediately filed exceptions and asked for a new trial. Last week District Attorney Thomas C. Brien nol prossed the case.

The American regrets the error in yesterday's editions.

WILL SHE GET HER $20,000 AWARD?

MADELEIN DEVER, HER MOTHER AND LAWYER

International News Reel Photo

On the nomination of his own attorney, wealthy and middle-aged Philip M. Shaw was unanimously recommended for the presidency of the Fool Club by a jury that at the same time established the cost of the election by awarding a $20,000 verdict to Madelein Dever, former "Follies dancer, in her $100,000 suit for breach of promise. Miss Dever, her mother, Mrs. Ella Dever, and her attorney, Morse H. Hirsch, smile over the verdict. Shaw's attorney, however, admitting that Shaw was once wealthy, maintains now that his fortune is gone and intimates to the fair victor in the case: "Try and get it!"

MIGRATION OF ELKS TOWARD HUB IS ON

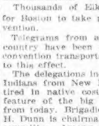
A demonstration by the United States Coast Guard, arranged by Congressman James A. Gallivan as a feature of the big naval display to be given in connection with the Elks' convention here next week, will be given off Nantasket Beach next Wednesday night, when out-of-town delegates and their wives will be guests of Boston lodge convention committee.

Exhibitions of lifesaving and other activities of the guard will be set forth for the enjoyment of the crowd. Lieutenant-Commander Vandle is co-operating with Congressman Gallivan in preparing for the demonstrations.

Thousands of Elks are en route for Boston to take part in the convention.

Telegrams from all parts of the country have been received by the convention transportation committee to this effect.

The delegations include a band of Indians from New Mexico who, attired in native costume, will be a feature of the big parade a week from today. Brigadier General John H. Dunn is chairman of the parade committee. Among the entertainers are Giovanni Zerga, operatic tenor, a member of Revere Lodge.



Giovanni Zerga

Another feature of the parade will be an exhibition of "flivver busters" from Philadelphia. They will perform all sorts of daring and amusing stunts with their automobiles.

The Philadelphia delegation of 650 are due to arrive in Boston next Monday morning abroad the 21,000-ton steamship Voltaire. They will eat and sleep aboard ship during the convention after which the steamship will proceed to Halifax, N. S., and St. Johns, N. F., for short visits.

PLANS COMPLETED.

All arrangements for the big parade which is expected to attract between 200,000 and 500,000 visitors to Boston, were perfected at a meeting in the Copley-Plaza hotel between Grand Esquire Charles H. Grakelow of Philadelphia, the first grand officer to arrive, and members of the convention executive committee.

Grand Esquire Grakelow will have personal charge of the parade and premises it will be a "humdinger."

"No person should remain away because of fear that he cannot secure a room," Grakelow announced. "The report of the rooming committee is that it can take care of twice as many people as will probably come here. There are plenty of rooms for everybody and the prices are not excessive.

64 BANDS IN LINE.

"The parade, a week from today will be the biggest event in the history of the organization. My present figures, which will probably be increased daily, are that 75,000 will march, in addition to 3,000 musicians who comprise sixty-four bands. There will be a regular feast of music."

One of the features of the parade will be a float called "Landing of the Pilgrims." The first flag that flies in the breeze in Plymouth will wave from this float. Five hundred members of recently organized Plymouth Lodge will march.

Headlight transparencies with "Welcome Elks" in red letters are being placed on all automobiles owned by members of the order coming to Boston.

Bigamist of 1,000 Love Letters Thanks Judge and Wife No. 2

Chicago, July 2 (By Universal Service).—The thousand love letters with which Adolph Gunness wooed and won Anna Furpass and her $1,500 failed to hold the affection of his bride when she learned that Mrs. Gunness No. 1 was still living and had a rightful claim to the Gunness name.

Charged with bigamy, Gunness who is the nephew of Belle Gunness, proprietor of the "murder farm" at Laporte, Ind., was sentenced today to serve one to five years in the Joliet penitentiary. He thanked Judge Stelzen, after sentence was passed, then turned to his wife, who brought about his conviction, and said:

"Thank you, too, Anna."

$25,000 IN RUM TAKEN IN LYNN GARAGE

More than $25,000 worth of high grade liquor was seized in Libbey's garage at No. 157 Fayette street, Lynn, by reserve police officer Arthur W. McDonald of the Lynn police, who went into the garage after he had followed an automobile in another car a distance of a mile.

In the garage he found sixty cases of Scotch whiskey which the police say is fifteen years old, 150 dozen bags of Scotch whiskey containing fifteen bottles in each bag, twenty-five dozen bottles of brandy and twenty-five cases of gin.

When the driver of the automobile pursued by MacDonald saw the officer enter the garage he jumped out of his machine and left the garage by a rear window. The patrol wagon which arrived on the scene shortly after was filled to capacity with the high grade liquor.

Shortly after the seizure Officer MacDonald placed three men under arrest charged with illegal keeping of liquor. They were: Walter Libbey prominent in Lynn politics, Charles A. Libbey and George Lawrence. The latter the police say owns the garage.

The men were immediately bailed on their arrival at police headquarters. They were released in $500 bail and will appear in Lynn District Court today before Judge Edward O'Brien.

This is the second big liquor seizure made by the Lynn police in a week.

WEST END WOMAN SERIOUSLY BURNED

Mrs. Anna Yorosky, forty years old, was probably fatally burned today when her clothing caught fire while she was lighting a gas stove in the kitchen of her home at No. 46 Leverett street, West End. She was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital.

NASON GIRL HAD THREATENED TO END LIFE

Lancaster, N. H., July 3—A packet of letters written by "Mollie" Nason, just prior to the slaying of the young Berlin divorcee may save her chum, Zona Huntoon, from the gallows.

These letters, written by the divorcee to Evank "Cappy" Rix, a youth of Berlin, have been introduced as evidence before the grand jury presiding the death of the Nason girl and on these letters rest the principal defense of the Huntoon girl, who is accused of the murder.

One of the letters—the one to which the defense attached the greatest importance—has mysteriously disappeared—but through the remaining letters the attorneys for the accused girl hope to prove that Mollie Nason took her own life.

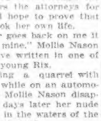
"If Zona ever goes back on me it is the river for mine," Mollie Nason is alleged to have written in one of these letters to young Rix.

It was following a quarrel with Zona Huntoon, while on an automobile party, that Mollie Nason disappeared and ten days later her nude body was found in the waters of the Ammonoosuc mill pond.

Dr. W. F. Noyes of Colebrook, medical referee, told the grand jury of the injuries to the girl's head and how these injuries might have been inflicted by her assailant before the body was thrown into the pond.

BAKER NAMES FINN TO HEAD P. O. BRANCH

Joseph F. Finn, for the past twenty-four years in the postal service, has been appointed by Postmaster Roland M. Baker, and has entered upon his new duties as superintendent of the West Somerville Postoffice at 1111 the vacancy caused by the death of Philip A. Aberle, for nineteen years in charge of the station.



J. F. Finn

The new superintendent, who was selected from nineteen candidates, since 1916 has been a station examiner and foreman of carriers, having previously for thirteen years delivered mail in the Haymarket square section of the city. His brother, Daniel W. Finn, is a carrier attached to the West Somerville office, covering the Ball Square route.

3 SENTENCED FOR MOLESTING OFFICER

Remarking that policemen will be protected by the court in the discharge of their duties, Judge H. M. Smith, in Somerville Municipal Court today, imposed severe sentences on three men for interfering with Patrolman John M. Doolin.

Sam Zambernardi, of No. 20 Jonathan street, Waverley, was sentenced for a year to the House of Correction for assaulting an officer. Ralph Baroni, of No. 32 Evergreen avenue, Somerville, got two years on the same charge and three months additional for drunkeness. His brother, Patsy Baroni, was sentenced for a year for attempting to rescue a prisoner. All appealed.

COUNTESS SLAPPED ON STREET

American Girl, Heiress-Wife of General Piccio, Tells of Hero's Abuse

The American has procured by special cable an exclusive statement from one of the principals of the greatest international marital episode of a decade.

The civilized world was thrilled a fortnight ago when cable flashes from Rome told how that American heiress, the lovely Locanda Batcheldor, was fleeing across the Mediterranean in a cockleshell of boat, trying to get her baby son to America.

Behind her in pursuit roared five Italian naval planes, commanded by her husband, General Pier Ruggero Piccio, Italy's "ace of aces." She was captured in Sardinia.

Rome, July 3.—My advice to American girls is, "Do not marry foreigners."

I do not mean to say that they are bad—simply that their temperament cannot concord itself with the emancipated customs of America.

I should know, for on June 21, 1920—that seems ages ago now though I am only twenty-eight—I married Pier Ruggero Piccio in New York City.

He was a Colonel then in the Italian aviation forces—and a hero, too. He had brought down forty-two enemy planes. He's a General now, and Mussolini's friend. And he's still, I suppose, a hero to the Italian populace.

HELD WIFE AS SLAVE.

What I got when I married Piccio was a husband; what he imagined he got was not a wife but a slave. He supposed that I would agree with him in every little detail of life even to liking the same food.

If I demurred, even pleasantly, he first got on his dignity, and then became furious. Our married life after the first few days was a bitter trial.

Then when we came to Europe life was hell.

The General presumed to dictate my every action.

He tried to break my spirit. He couldn't. I have American blood—fighting blood, at that—in my veins. Then he changed from a husband into a slave driver.

Twice this man—the hero of Italy—struck me, a woman. Once his fist crashed into my body because I had merely dared to visit my mother, who lived a few short blocks away.

When the child came we knew a few short weeks of happiness—an oasis in months of misery.

But his arrogant bearing and even brutal character came out eventually. I was no longer free to invite my mother or my friends into the house which my money had bought and furnished. I was a slave in my own cage.

One night we were in my mother's house. She had given a dinner party to some distinguished guests. I was wearing a frail decollete gown. Suddenly General Piccio grabbed me and dragged me from my own mother's house. He cuffed me in a public street, before idle loungers.

STOLE THE BOY.

After that it was all over.

I told him to go. He went but my absence he returned and took not only his personal belongings but many of mine, including the family furniture. With our son, whom he kidnaped, he fled to Rome while I appealed vainly to all authorities, French, American and Italian.

I went to Rome and finally found where the nurse was accustomed to take the boy for his morning walk.

From that to taking the boy in an unguarded moment, jumping into a fast automobile and rushing to the coast, was but a short step.

The nurse naturally rushed home and found General Piccio conferring with Premier Mussolini. She broke into the conference. General Piccio rushed out, ordered a special train and hurried to Naples.

I arrived at Sardinia and within two days General Piccio arrived on the scene.

HIS HER ARRESTED.

He called in the police, charging I had abducted the boy. Six policemen thereupon came to the hotel and summoned me to give up Peter, my baby.

I refused to give up my son and they threatened me with guns, so I pulled out my own revolver and stood at the head of the stairs and told them I would shoot the first man who stepped forward.

2 WAKEFIELD SAFES WRECKED FOR $25

Safe breakers wrecked two Wakefield safes today—all for $25, a diamond ring and a revolver. At the coal and grain office of Curtis Brothers, Main street, the combination was knocked off with a sledge hammer. Ten dollars in cash was obtained.

Two hundred yards farther along Main street, the yeggmen blew the safe of the W. E. Knox Co., lumber dealers. In this office they stole $15 in small change and war savings stamps, a revolver and a diamond ring.

PLOT BARED TO RUN ARMS INTO RUSSIA

London, July 3 (I.N.S.).—An international intrigue to smuggle arms into Soviet Russia and Roumania in preparation for hostilities which are threatened in the future has been unearthed by Scotland Yard. One shipment consigned from England other got away.

It is reported that Roumania has been secretly securing arms and munitions in France in anticipation of trouble with Russia over Bessarabia, a former Russian province which was seized by Roumania. Russia is endeavoring to make counter-preparations by obtaining arms from the outside and England is the only source of supply.

Meanwhile France is pressing for immediate resumption of Allied military control over Germany to prevent German arms from being smuggled into Russia. The first intimation the British had of the plot came from Paris.

Court proceedings against the smugglers are expected to result in sensational revelations.

AMERICAN RECEIVES FIRST PHOTOS BY AIR

The first air mail picture from the Pacific coast were received by the Boston American today. The photographs were in transit 49 hours and 50 minutes.

Delivery of the pictures cost $2.15 for aerial postage and ten cents for special delivery.

The speed with which these pictures were delivered in Boston demonstrates the practicability of the new improvement in the air mail service and the possibility of printing news pictures appearing in important news events almost before the ink is dry on the stories them-selves. As usual, the Boston American can will lead in adopting this lightning-like service for the benefit of its thousands of satisfied patrons.

INSURE N. Y. GUARD FOR $50,000,000

Peekskill, N. Y., July 2.—Major-General Charles W. Berry, in command of the New York National Guard, has announced that he will sign an order at the State camp in Peekskill today by which he will insure about 20,000 men of the guard for approximately $50,000,000. This action will be taken under the law recently passed by the Legislature, making group insurance for guardsmen possible.

This insurance is available in amounts ranging from $2,000 to $5,000, the bulk of the expense being borne by the State, although there will be small contributions from the members of the guard.

MEXICO WILL ELECT PRESIDENT SUNDAY

Mexico City, July 3 (A.P.)—The campaign leading up to the presidential election next Sunday has brought into the field no political organizations of nation-wide scope. The struggle has been fought on a more or less personal basis between Generals Angel Flores and Plutarco Elias Calles. In the main, organizations of a radical character have aligned themselves behind Calles, while the conservative elements have announced for Flores. In general, agrarian and labor union organizations are supporting Calles while landowners are behind his opponent.

TECH STUDENT IS KILLED BY BOMB BLAST

Harry Tuttle, 20, of Cleveland, an honor student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was killed by a bomb of his own manufacture, as he snatched it from a comrade while it hung fire at his home. F. Colling Snider, companion, he was attempting to save, lies critically injured in a Cleveland hospital. It is believed the boys were experimenting for Fourth of July fireworks.

Tuttle entered Tech last year. He came from Warrensville, O., and was specializing in chemical engineering.

From the day that he entered the college he was recognized as a leader of his class in that particular subject.

He finished his first year work at Tech with highest honors.

FLAYS RICH IN PLOT ON SCHOOLS

Educator Says "Big Interests" Are Seeking to Throttle Their Development

Washington, July 3.—Existence of a united opposition to further development of American public schools, led by "tax dodgers, heartless rich, big interests and an arrogant aristocracy," was asserted by J. W. Crabtree, secretary of the National Education Association, before a meeting of the association's convention here today.

Many leaders in education, he said, during the past year had felt the force of well-organized attacks.

"It is now surmised," he declared, "that some of the heartless interests which are opposing further development of education largely to keep taxes down to the minimum, are making calculations of some of those who offer objections from a religious point of view.

"If true that there is a connection of this kind and that an element is being used, it will be definitely known in due time and the connection will immediately become inoperative.

Mr. Crabtree charged that "tax dodgers are choking the life out of the schools in more than one community, and that "big interests are working great injury in private schools in an attempt to prejudice them against the public schools."

"There is a class composed of the money-hearted rich and an arrogant aristocracy," he added, "which is violently opposing the adequate support of the schools. This element is now receiving unexpected help and has the active help of a fault finding group. The opposition to the policies of the association as well as to the progress of the public schools, therefore, comes from both extremes in society.

"These radical, fire-eating factors not only attack policies, but they question motives and reflect on the good name of officers of the association and of certain leaders in the profession.

"It is always a question whether such criticism should receive attention or to be ignored."

Smart Set Planning Gay Celebration on the Holiday, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

Society is rushing to the country. The fashionable leaders are being wooed for the week-end of mountain and seashore resorts, while less prominents, with their gay-looking flags and bunting will transform the harbors into a riot of color, and the country clubs will draw large throngs for events during the day-time and dances in the evening.

Apropos of terpsichorean events planned for tomorrow, a number of Boston folk will be present at the large dance which Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney will give at "Greentree," their Summer place at Manhasset, L. I., for their daughter, Miss Joan Whitney, whose marriage to Charles Shipman Payson will take place on Saturday at Christ Church, Manhasset.

Sidney B. Hoerner and Lawrence Foster, both of Boston, will be ushers at the ceremonial which is easily one of Gotham's most important weddings of the year, and is of interest to society in a number of cities.

I NOTE that Amory S. Carhart, who captured for his bride Miss Isadora Bliss a number of years ago, is on the committee for the Independence Day festivities being staged at Tuxedo Park.

The celebration is both for the villagers and residents of the Park. There will be a parade in the village in which representatives of all the civic organizations, including the fire department, will participate. In the evening there will be a brilliant display of fireworks in the Park.

Mrs. Carhart, who made a brief visit in Gotham this week, will spend a portion of the Summer with Mr. Carhart visiting on Long Island.

Mary Curtis

THE Hamilton - Wenham colony boasts perhaps the largest number of "saddle addicts" of any section along the North Shore, and one of Hamilton's most notable equestriennes is auburn-haired Miss Mary Curtis.

Miss Curtis has had visiting her this month her young niece —also named Mary Curtis—whose home is in Concord.

MISS SUZANNE DABNEY

FIRST OUTING COUPON, JULY 7; WATCH FOR IT

Limited Number of Tickets for "Mothers' and Children's Day" Trip

On July 7, four days from today, the first coupon for the Boston American's annual "Mothers' and Children's Day Outings," will appear.

Watch for it.

Remember, five coupons clipped on five consecutive days, entitles the holder to a round trip ticket to Nantasket, when presented in person at the Boston American Outing Headquarters, No. 288 Devonshire street. A nominal charge of ten cents will be made.

HEADQUARTERS OPEN JULY 12.

Outing Headquarters will be opened at eight o'clock on the morning of July 12, and because of the limited number of tickets, those who apply first will be served.

The big day will be Tuesday, July 15, when the first of the thousands who will be the American's guests during the hot weather, will be taken to the beach.

Two boats have been procured from the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company, but the law restricts the number of passengers to 1500 on each. For that reason only 3000 persons can be taken on each outing, which will continue every Tuesday during the hot weather.

Ticket holders will be given an hour's call down the harbor, and will be brought back to Boston in the late afternoon on the same boats. At the famous beach they will receive stacks of ice cream, pounds of cake, and gallons of pure milk, all free.

CHANCE TO BATHE

They will bathe in the invigorating salt water and play in the soft, white sand. Afterward the attractions of Paragon Park will be thrown open to them.

Be sure and bring your coupons to the American's Outing Headquarters on Devonshire street. Do not take them to the boat, as they will not be accepted there.

The fun will really begin after you arrive at the beach. There will be a fleet of big trucks drawn up waiting for you. Three of these will contain stacks and stacks of ice cream furnished through the generosity of J. Howard Bushway, general manager of the Bushway Company, Somerville.

LOTS OF FREE MILK.

Two more will contain thousands of bottles of pasteurized milk, the gift of Francis S. Cummings, head of the Francis S. Cummings Milk Company of Somerville.

Then there will be a truck loaded with delicious cake, procured through the courtesy of Sales Manager Sargent of the Berwick Cake Company.

Last but not least, Frank Archer, the "Pied Piper of the Nickel Empire," and a friend of all the children, has promised a surprise which will go far toward making the day a success.

M. Sarkin, manager of the Zaza Bath House, has generously offered the use of lockers to all who wish to bathe, the only condition being that they bring their own suits.

As usual Paragon Park, one of the most famous resorts in the country, will be thrown open through the courtesy of Manager Joseph Sims. The "Red Mill Stream" will be free to the girls and "Hilarity Hall" to the boys. Other attractions will be furnished.

Facts to Remember About Mother's Outing Trips

First Mother's Outing coupon appears in Boston American, July 7, and will be followed with another each day for five days. When these coupons are presented in person at the American Outing Headquarters, they will be exchanged for one ticket and a tag admitting the holder to Paragon Park.

Outing headquarters, No. 288 Devonshire street, will open at 8 a. m. July 12.

First come, first served.

Only 3,000 persons permitted by law on the two boats.

The law requires that every passenger, even babies, must have own ticket on boarding steamboat.

First boat leaves Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company wharf on Atlantic avenue at 9:15, Tuesday morning, July 15. Returning it will leave Nantasket at 2:30 p. m.

The second boat leaves the Atlantic avenue wharf at 10:15 the same morning, and returning leaves Nantasket at 4:30 in the afternoon.

Be sure and read your ticket.

Do not take coupons to the boat, as they will not be accepted.

Get entertainment tag at Outing Headquarters, when exchanging coupons.

STRANGLE BABY WHOSE CRIES ANNOY HOUSE

Birmingham, Eng., July 3.—Charles Welford Travers, twenty-one, a student of Brooklyn, N. Y., has confessed he strangled his infant son to death in trying to make him stop crying.

Investigation disclosed that the baby was kept confined night and day in a perambulator. Days Travers and his bride were out sightseeing, leaving the baby alone, at night the infant cried continually and neighbors complained.

In his confession Travers says he tried to quiet the child by holding his hand over its mouth and when it tried holding its nose between his fingers. The cries of the child only became louder.

Then the thought came to the young husband that perhaps if he pressed his little son's windpipe it would stop crying. He tried this.

His confession continued:

"I held him this way six or seven different times by the throat, and eventually held him for a longer period—I imagine three minutes.

"Upon releasing my hold I noticed that he did not breathe again. I found his heart was not beating."

Travis said he then removed the clothes of the baby, wrapped the body in two blankets, placed it in his kit bag and deposited it in the railroad station parcel room.

MAN DIES OF SHOCK AFTER FIST FIGHT

Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary dispelled suspicion of foul play in the death of Oscar Mooney, thirty-eight, who died in City Hospital after he was removed there today from the house at No. 953 Massachusetts avenue, where, according to Andrew Mathiasen, he and Mooney engaged in a fist fight over an alleged insult to Mathiasen's wife.

Mooney died of shock and heart failure after drinking heavily, Dr. Leary announced after a post-mortem examination. Mathiasen was arrested when Mooney died.

WOMAN TAKES BACK ATTACK ON NEWPORT

Philadelphia Miss Smith Admits Gambling and Rum-Selling Only Rumors

Newport, R. I., July 3.—One self-appointed scourger of the civic fame of Newport, Miss Esther Morton Smith of Philadelphia, who severely arraigned this municipality for protecting gambling houses and liquor selling until the name of Newport has become a byword for protected vice of every kind," has had to publicly back down.

She acknowledged before the Newport Board of Aldermen that all the information she had on the broad subjects she discussed was based on rumors and uninvestigated statements of other persons.

After she had had her say and her say so had much disturbed the Newporters, the aldermanic board invited her to attend one of their meetings and lay her platform before them. They promised the fullest cooperation towards removing Newport municipal cancers if Miss Smith was able to make good her claims.

At the meeting of the aldermen Miss Smith had to shift front. She admitted most of her information was based on what an ex-policeman had told her. She did not give his name. She mentioned the addresses of two places she had been told were not what they ought to be.

At this meeting three statements from executive members of the Newport police department were presented to Miss Smith, denying that any places where liquor was sold or other vice maintained, existed in the city.

She was also told that Mayor Sullivan had not been elected on a so-called "open town" platform. She was courteously treated by the aldermen and acknowledged the error of her procedure.

LINEMAN PLUNGES TO HIS DEATH

William J. Tanner, forty-five years old, of No. 62 Torrey street, Dorchester, an electrical lineman in the employ of the Fred T. Ley Company, was instantly killed when he fell from a ladder while repairing wires at the corner of Curtis street and Powder House boulevard, Somerville, today. He struck on his head. Rev. Daniel F. Desmond, who saw the accident, administered the last rites of the Catholic church.

CHICKIE

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

By ELENORE MEHERIN

"QUITE correct. It might fall from a window; it might be devoured by wolves."

"Quite so. Or it might be smothered by the mother; or taken out and exposed to the elements. It might be removed from a warm bed and carried abroad in the coldest wind of the year?"

The doctor measured his rival and smiled. "Yes—that's true."

"In which case the infant might be brought to your hospital dead? Would you be justified in signing the death certificate without referring the case to the recognized authority—namely, the coroner?"

The doctor hesitated, sensing the trap. He said, gruffly, "I am not here to discuss theoretical questions, but to tell of a certain, definite case that has nothing to do with death from smothering or exposure."

"You can be sure of that—sure that in two days and a half neither of these things could possibly have happened?"

Legal Battle

"Very sure."

"Though the infant was brought to you dead?"

"Very sure."

"But you admit the possibility that death might have occurred from other causes?"

"Possibly; but in this case death was due to complete material weakness. death I looked for from the moment of the infant's birth."

"So you are willing to state that an infant admittedly weak could be expected to survive being used and suffer no hurt?"

"I state that this child did not die from exposure. An infant of four days in normal health might be thrown in the snow, and it wouldn't die if it were in time."

"You would merely define a child of four days to be taken out in a drive or wind storm?"

"I am not here to give advice."

"How many times did the mother of this child visit you before its birth?"

"Twice."

"Had you known her previously, or did you know the father of the child?"

"No."

"Have you ever seen the father?"

"No."

"Did it occur to you, as in any way suspicious, that a young mother four days after the birth of her child should rush out with it in the cold, bring her dead child to you and leave without waiting for the burial?"

"Her mother was dying."

"How did you know that?"

"She told me so."

The coroner sat back and folded his arms. "Very well — that's enough. She told you so?"

Chickie was called.

At the mention of her name, the silence parted like a gash—eh spere spurted heads turned; sharp, expectant breathe.

Chickie sat motionless, hearing Jonathan's murmured plea: "Remember, Chickie, girl—brave—proud now—go up—" She tried to smile.

Then a hand at her elbow. The lawyer said quietly: "You have nothing to fear. Answer clearly."

All this was vague, yet frightening because of the blur that made the warm room, and all the faces in it run together. In this blur she saw with piercing and cruel intensity, the red, perspiring face of the coroner, then suddenly that of the messenger who had come with Barry Dunne's note; the messenger who said: "Have you given his name?" Then the faces merged—they were one with four terrible eyes focused upon her.

The coroner asked quietly, assuming an impartial tone: "What is your name?"

And that shocked her. Her hands were clasped—so cold she didn't feel their pressure. But she felt a hundred eyes and she glanced up to them, bewildered. She gave no answer.

"Is your name Helena Bryce?"

No sound. Then: Were you known here in Portsmouth and on the farm here of Mrs. Agnes Robbins as Mrs. John Clayton?"

"Yes."

"Are you the mother of the deceased infant known as 'Merle Clayton?'"

"Yes."

Awful Truth

"Are you married?"

The lawyer rose: "Just a moment. If you please, Mr. Coroner, I am attorney for the witness. I must instruct her not to answer that question. It has no bearing on the death of the child."

"I beg to differ, sir. My purpose as coroner of this town is to clear a very mysterious case of infant death. There are certain suspicious circumstances. An unmarried mother might have many reasons for getting rid of her child—"

"Well, Mr. Coroner, my client comes here voluntarily. She is perfectly willing to state all the facts of the baby's death. She wishes to clear the matter. But she is under no compulsion' to speak. If you can show foul play in the death of the child; if you can show the mother may be responsible, then I am willing that she answer all questions necessary in proving a motive. But you will have to show that a crime was committed first."

"Very well. Where is your home, Mrs. Clayton?"

Almost inaudible, Chickie answered: "Boston."

"You came to the farm of Mrs. Agnes Robbins five months before your child was born?"

"Yes."

"Your mail was sent from the city though a hotel in Portsmouth. It was addressed to Miss Helena Bryce?"

The lawyer quietly: "Don't answer."

"But isn't it a fact, Mrs. Clayton, that you sent a telegram on the day of your disappearance signed with the name of Bryce and also that you received messages sent to Helena Bryce?"

"I must object to that, Mr. Coroner. Whether she sent a telegram in name or a dozen has absolutely no bearing on the matter under investigation—namely the death of the infant."

The coroner reared the thick neck as an animal does. He leaned forward till his face was almost on a level with the table. "If the witness wishes to conceal facts, Mr. Attorney very well. The fact that a woman leads a double life—uses two names, conceals from her parents the birth of a child, bears directly on the case—"

Now Her Chance

"Unless you show it, the questions will be answered. Until then, I must insist that this question is merely an embarrass my witness, the witness will be withdrawn—"

"Then and a warrant charging murder may be sworn!"

Jonathan stirred then—he lurched forward, started to speak. The lawyer raised his hand. He answered suavely: "Yes—the warrant can be sworn if the evidence is at hand. If there is no evidence, all parties swearing to such a warrant shall be responsible. However, Mr. Coroner, the witness wishes to add. She is ready to give the complete account of the child's death. I am aware that you, as coroner of this town, can certainly have no prejudice—no wish to fasten guilt where guilt can not exist. My witness will give all necessary information."

The coroner fixed his large, slothful eyes on Chickie: "Did your parents know of the birth of your child?"

"Just a moment!"

But now the tension sharpened, a scraping of feet, an impatient stirring, but the lawyer turned to the jury: "The question deals with the death, not the birth, of an infant."

The men in the jury watched Chickie. She sat with the pale face lowered—exquisite in its thinness, piercing in its mute despair.

The coroner answered: "The death may be directly traceable to the unfortunate circumstances of its birth. Is it a fact, Mrs. Clayton, that on the fourth day after the birth of your child you secretly removed it from the farm house of Mrs. Robbins?"

"Yes."

"You knew it was a new, freezing day?"

"I don't know."

"You knew your child was weak?"

"They said so."

"You left a note saying that you sent the nurse away because she would oppose your going. So you knew it was a dangerous thing to take the child from the house—"

Forlorn in Shame

Chickie was suddenly standing at its basket again, seeing he small, unprotecting face, dreaming of placing it in her mother's arms—giving it to them—to Jennie and to Jonathan. She glanced upward, her eyes beseeching. She said faintly: "I couldn't leave it—I couldn't go and leave it."

"Why did you go?"

"A message—I had a message—"

"That your mother was dying. Is this the message you mean?"

Chickie nodded. Now she sat lower in the chair. She clasped and unclasped her hands. Her eyes seemed to grow large—to take on with their frantic appeal the whiteness of her face.

"You got a message that your mother was dying and you left, taking the baby with you? You intended to take this child to your dying mother—"

A flickering smile, half wild, went about Chickie's mouth. She said: "Yes—oh—you see—you see—"

"You were to bring the child to them although a week before its birth you sent the telegram?" He held up a yellow slip of paper. He read the frantic message Chickie had sent. Oh, that was when she was snowbound in the mountains—she couldn't get to them. He read this. The men and women packed into the heated room, with the sun streaming like a warm liquid even through the drawn shades—these men and women craned forward, drinking expectantly the painful revelation of Chickie's concealments—Chickie's forlorn, lost flight to hide the shame and the tragedy.

Jonathan had called: "In God's name, come—Jennie is sinking."

That was the day she had rushed to the closet, grabbed the black silk cape, draping it wildly about her—flinging her head back—She was going—going—ah—but she had seen her image and the coldness of her blood went into her heart. It became a leaden thing.

No—she hadn't gone. She had wired: "I'm coming—travel slow on these awful mountains. I have a terribly sprained ankle. I may be delayed."

She went back now to that despairate hour—lost and helpless in it. The coroner spoke twice. Agnes Robbins tapped her shoulder before she heard:

"You were not in the mountains when this message was sent. Isn't it a fact that you were here in the valley and on the farm of Mrs. Robbins at that time and that you were then awaiting the birth of your child?"

A silent, despondding nod.

A Flickering Smile Was on Chickie's Mouth

Can Chickie Come Back?

Can Chickie come back? Can she build life anew out of the wreck of her hopes and dreams? Is society Christian enough to give her the second chance it always has given the man who has sinned against its laws?

For the answer, real the sequel to "Chickie" in the Boston American, beginning July 7, and running daily.

To give the answer here would be to cheat you out of the keen joy of following this true-to-life story of a girl's struggles against the world, the flesh, the devil and herself.

In the first part of the story, you knew Chickie torn by conflicting emotions; a victim of stress and storm. In this second part, a complete story in itself, you meet her as a woman of poise and character, whom life has chastened, broadened and ennobled.

It is a story of the Twentieth Century. It is psychologically true. In Boston, everywhere, are girls today trying to atone for the mistakes of youth, to wrest a little happiness and peace from the life which has treated them so cruelly.

What are their problems? How do they face them? Chickie's story is their's. Can she come back?

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

By Ann Lisle

"THICKIE'S almost nothing I can't talk over with you." I went on eagerly. "You've stood by me so magnificently. In my search for Neal that I've come to realize how much depth and sincerity there can be to an understanding friendship. I'm afraid of taking advantage—"

Ann Lisle

"You couldn't," Ralph murmured a bit huskily. Then in a moment he said in a steady voice:

"Something the whole business tonight looked to me like some sort of stage setting. Putting two and two together, as newspaper men have a way of doing, I'd say you were trying to get young Ortiz friendly with our inner crowd and to make him aware that the whole man is a studied with mountain food called Cordova. But why, Anne? You don't play games. This must be a serious business. Can you let me into the elect circle of those who know?"

"It's like this," I said, weighing my words. "The Shipping Corporation is blocked in its efforts to secure South American trade, as you know from what Peter told us.

"Now I've discovered that young Ortiz has been made general manager of the amalgamated shipping interests down there or something as powerful as that.

"Then Rosa suggested that I might be useful in introducing her young 'Xelio' to some of the big men I meet through my advertising work. And I twisted that into a deal for me to do his publicity work. Rosa approved of that, too. I can't imagine what her motives are. But I know her well enough to be sure she has motives. In any case, however, I got an inspiration from the situation."

"You'll have to be a little more explicit," Ralph was frankly puzzled. "I'm not capable of following a whirlwind feminine 'hunch' unless the way is pointed."

"I always expect you to be about two jumps ahead of me." I protested. "But this time you couldn't know unless you had the key. Well, here it is. I've a notion that either because Rosa wants to spite Peter in return for his snubbing her, or because she resents not being on the ground floor of the Shipping Corporation, she has issued orders to Manuelo not to give us a slip or a charter."

"Perfectly plausible," commented Ralph. "Go on."

"It is not fair to the boy that he should let an infatuation for Rosa Cordova stand between him and his better judgement. It may do the Shipping Corporation grave harm to be blocked in South America. It's quite likely to ruin a man in young Ortiz's position to be advised by a woman with motives as tricky and malicious as Rosa's. He ought to have his chance. But of course I'm not counting on anything more than leading him to the place where he can see all the paths there are for him to take. He may still prefer the path Rosa has blazed."

"I'd say that is just what he's bound to do," commented Ralph drily. "Do you think for a moment that Rosa Cordova would play into your hands as she appears to have been doing unless she saw her way clear to get something out of it?"

"She's capable of that——"

"But too subtle to fall playing into your hand for the sake of preening and posing. Look out, Anne. The little Cordova would stop at nothing to attain her goal. I'm sure of that. I'd be inclined to lump her and young Ortiz into one classification—tricky. That's what I'd call them."

We had come to the entrance of my apartment building by now. Ralph stepped into the hall and spoke in a serious undertone.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

THE WEDDING GOWN.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Can you kindly advise me if it is appropriate for a lady of fifty to marry in a cream colored gown, white slippers and without a hat. Would you suggest a different color?

2. Can her daughter, the maid of honor, wear clothes according to the style of the bride's clothes, and can she carry a bouquet?

3. Can the bride have flowers?

MRS. W. N.

I THINK that there is nothing so handsome for a bride of fifty to wear at a wedding as a costume of soft gray. Wouldn't you like that better? Gray, and especially the exceptionally soft shades that are shown this year, is becoming to almost all types. Then, too, it is so easy to get the accessories of a gray costume—gray and a hat of any blending shade, silver or gold cloth, the new "powder blue," the new browns, or beige are also appropriate shades.

2. Yes; the daughter should wear a dress of the same general type, of lightweight material of any natural shade that is becoming.

3. With these informal costumes it is appropriate and convenient for the bride and maid of honor to wear corsage bouquets.

MARTHA LEE'S RADIO CHATS ON COOKING

OF course it will be salmon for the Fourth and such fine, firm salmon in the market this morning at 40 and 45c per pound.

Or, if you prefer, there were lobsters 65c per pound., swordfish steak cod, 25c pound, butter fish 30 pound, clams 40c basket, haddock 12c pound, fillet of sole 25c pound, scallops 45c pound, fresh eastern halibut 40c pound.

I want to tell you about some of the ways you can use crabmeat, either fresh or canned. Canned crabmeat is packed by the most scientific methods — some men right aboard the vessels, wrapped in fresh parchment paper and sealed in tins which are lacquered inside for additional protection.

As an appetizer, a salad, a salad or the main dish for supper or luncheon or supper, crabmeat is convenient and delicious—good for light refreshments in the evening, too, and for sandwich fillings.

Crabmeat may also be used in cocktails, omelets, a la king, creamed with egg, in patties, as a stuffing for tomatoes, creamed and then called Cordova. But why, Anne? You don't play games. This must be a serious business. Can you let me into the elect circle of those who know?"

"It's like this," I said, weighing my words. "The Shipping Corporation is blocked in its efforts to secure South American trade, as you know from what Peter told us.

"Now I've discovered that young Ortiz has been made general manager of the amalgamated shipping interests down there or something as powerful as that.

"Then Rosa suggested that I might be useful in introducing her young 'Xelio' to some of the big men I meet through my advertising work. And I twisted that into a deal for me to do his publicity work. Rosa approved of that, too. I can't imagine what her motives are. But I know her well enough to be sure she has motives. In any case, however, I got an inspiration from the situation."

"You'll have to be a little more explicit," Ralph was frankly puzzled. "I'm not capable of following a whirlwind feminine 'hunch' unless the way is pointed."

"I always expect you to be about two jumps ahead of me." I protested. "But this time you couldn't know unless you had the key. Well, here it is. I've a notion that either because Rosa wants to spite Peter in return for his snubbing her, or because she resents not being on the ground floor of the Shipping Corporation, she has issued orders to Manuelo not to give us a slip or a charter."

"Perfectly plausible," commented Ralph. "Go on."

"It is not fair to the boy that he should let an infatuation for Rosa Cordova stand between him and his better judgement. It may do the Shipping Corporation grave harm to be blocked in South America. It's quite likely to ruin a man in young Ortiz's position to be advised by a woman with motives as tricky and malicious as Rosa's. He ought to have his chance. But of course I'm not counting on anything more than leading him to the place where he can see all the paths there are for him to take. He may still prefer the path Rosa has blazed."

"I'd say that is just what he's bound to do," commented Ralph drily. "Do you think for a moment that Rosa Cordova would play into your hands as she appears to have been doing unless she saw her way clear to get something out of it?"

"She's capable of that——"

"But too subtle to fall playing into your hand for the sake of preening and posing. Look out, Anne. The little Cordova would stop at nothing to attain her goal. I'm sure of that. I'd be inclined to lump her and young Ortiz into one classification—tricky. That's what I'd call them."

We had come to the entrance of my apartment building by now. Ralph stepped into the hall and spoke in a serious undertone.

To Be Continued Saturday.

Skin trouble costs many a man his job

No matter how efficient a man may be, if he has an ugly skin-eruption, there are positions in which he cannot be tolerated. He may know that it is not in the least contagious, but other people are afraid, they avoid him, and he must make way for a man with a clear, healthy skin. Why run this risk, when

M'ADOO SLIPS, REFUSES TO QUIT

APPEALS TO BACKERS TO HOLD

and went to Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas, whose managers were busy on the floor setting the stage to give the Arkansas Senator a run.

McAdoo at noon indicated that he had no intention of giving up the fight. He sent a letter to the chairman of each State delegation supporting him saying:

"The strength we have manifested entitles us to victory."

"CAN WIN FIGHT."

"Your fine delegation fought a splendid battle yesterday and I want you and them to know again how deeply I appreciate their continued support and how warmly I admire their courageous stand.

"We can win this fight if the progressive lines hold——

"The tactics of our opponents are, of course, to try to wear us out but this is just as impossible as to change the significance of July Fourth.

"The opposition cannot maintain a merely obstructive position. The strength we have manifested entitles us to victory and this fact will impress itself upon all fair-minded delegates in the convention with the progress of events.

"It is not reasonable to expect the progressive forces, which so largely control the convention, to capitulate to the minority that would not be democratic."

Governor Smith's managers sat tight and kept his strength around what it has been for the last score of ballots—370.

Senator Swanson, manager for Senator Glass of Virginia, denied at noon that Senator Glass had released his Virginia delegation of 24 but reports that he had done so prevailed in spite of the denial.

VIRGINIA HOLDS CAUCUS.

These reports were lent further weight by a caucus taken among the Virginians right after the 46th ballot.

Sixteen of the twenty-four were said to favor McAdoo, but decided to stick to Glass until the Old Dominion could present a united front on some candidate.

Simultaneously with McAdoo's drop, rumors became current on the floor that David Ladd Rockwell, McAdoo's pre-convention and floor manager, was to be dismissed. These rumors could not be confirmed.

McAdoo, accompanied by B. M. Baruch and T. L. Chadbourne, were in conference in a hotel across the street from the Garden.

McAdoo's total went down on the forty-third ballot today, because Oklahoma, with twenty votes, jumped out of his column and joined the forces of Senator Robinson of Arkansas.

The vote on that ballot, the first of the day, showed the leaders standing this way:

McAdoo, 483.4; Smith, 319.1; Davis, 71; Robinson, 44; Ralston, 31.

This showed a net loss of nineteen for McAdoo, carrying him below the five hundred mark.

It was a gain of a half vote for Smith; a gain of four votes for Davis and the gain of the whole State of Oklahoma for Robinson.

There was little change in the forty-fourth ballot, it being practically to the same figures.

Today's session was called to start at 10 o'clock and Chairman Walsh had announced balloting would begin promptly at that hour.

It did not, however, and the delegate shacks were sharply settled when the hour came. Floor leaders and convention managers were looking tired and fagged and so was everybody else but the delegates who have not been doing anything so far but vote when their names were called.

SHIFT TO RALSTON.

As the clerk moved to locate Chairman Walsh of Montana began rapping for order and introduced Rev. John E. Hensel of the English Evangelical Lutheran Church of Jersey City, who offered the morning prayer.

The clerk went back to the call of the States for the forty-third time.

"Twenty-four votes for Oscar Underwood," rolled in from Alabama as usual.

The first change came in Florida, where the single vote which had been cast for Underwood went to Ralston. The Ralston people said they were ready to start their drive today after the second ballot "if things look right."

CLAIM 100 FOR RALSTON.

The first breaks for Ralston are expected to come from the Middle West. Missouri, Iowa and Oklahoma, where Thomas Taggart had been making friends" were being counted on by the Ralston people to contribute something.

Taggart, more taciturn than ever, was hurrying silently over the floor, saying a word here and there. Members of the old Indiana-Illinois-New York coalition seemed to be working in harmony again.

North Carolina took four and a half votes from Glass and gave four to Joe W. Davis and one-half to McAdoo.

MISSISSIPPI THREAT.

McAdoo lieutenants were tardy coming in today. They had been at a late conference. They predicted that the convention would end tomorrow. At any rate they had a long record in their favor—most Democratic conventions of recent decades have been in session on the Fourth of July.

The drop in the McAdoo total caused by the switch of Oklahoma to Robinson, threatened to have an effect which might cost him some more as Mississippi was threatening to turn back to John W. Davis if McAdoo did not at once make some substantial gains.

As there was again no nomination, the rollcall was resumed for the forty-fourth ballot. That was the one on which Cox was nominated in San Francisco four years ago.

Illinois, still scattering her vote among the field, took a vote from Davis of Kansas and gave it to Senator Edwards, former Governor of New Jersey.

ONLY SMALL CHANGES.

The forty-fourth ballot produced no nominee as it did in San Francisco four years ago. The leaders stood:

McAdoo, 482.4; Smith, 319.1; Davis, 71; Robinson, 42; Ralston, 31.

McAdoo, Smith, Davis and Ralston were unchanged. Robinson lost one.

On the forty-fifth they stood this way: McAdoo, 483.4; Smith, 319.1; Davis, 72; Robinson, 44; Underwood, 25; Ralston, 31.

These figures showed a loss of one for McAdoo, no change for Smith, a gain of two for Davis, no change for Robinson or Ralston. Underwood lost two.

TIE BALTIMORE RECORD.

The convention went into the forty-sixth ballot and tied the ballot record with Baltimore, where Woodrow Wilson was nominated in 1912.

At the rate the balloting had been going it seemed headed for the fifty-seven ballot record of the convention of 1860 which nominated Douglass.

On the forty-sixth, in Maine Davis lost a half vote and McAdoo gained a half.

In Nebraska McAdoo gained one and Ritchie lost one.

McAdoo gained a vote in North Carolina; Underwood gained a half vote, both taking them from Davis of West Virginia.

REFUSE TO SWITCH.

Having passed the Baltimore record, the convention went on to the forty-seventh ballot. It developed that Senator Glass, releasing his delegates, advised his friends on the Virginia delegation to vote for McAdoo.

The Anti-McAdoo men on the delegation in the majority contend that the delegation is instructed for Glass and he cannot release it. They declined to permit a breakup at this time.

In North Carolina, Davis of West Virginia picked a half vote from McAdoo.

On the forty-seventh ballot the leaders stood:

McAdoo, 484.4; Smith, 320.1; Davis, 70.5; Robinson, 45; Underwood, 25.5; Ralston, 31.

McAdoo lost two and a half; Smith gained one; Davis lost a half; Robinson gained one, so did Underwood; Ralston was unchanged.

MISSOURI WAVERS.

There was a movement in the Missouri delegation to give a complimentary vote on the next ballot to former Governor Gardner. That would involve a cut of thirty-six in the McAdoo strength, temporarily at least.

A proposal that the Democratic National Committee take affairs in hand and end the deadlock by getting McAdoo and Smith to withdraw simultaneously was blown up when it got as far as the Smith people.

They announced they had dug in and were ready to stay until the McAdoo people were ready to give up the selge.

As the convention went into the forty-eighth ballot McAdoo delegates received a personal letter from their candidate, urging them to stick for a while.

In Connecticut Smith picked up nine-tenths of a vote, making the score a flat ten for himself and leaving four for McAdoo.

FAIL TO SWITCH.

The complimentary vote for former Governor Gardner in the Missouri delegation did not materialize and McAdoo got the thirty-six again on the forty-eighth ballot.

Pennsylvania's 76 was still being scattered, one taken from Robinson and given to Glass. Other changes were scarce. It was a draggy proceeding sustained only by the grim determination of the Smith and McAdoo people that neither should gain the advantage.

The forty-eighth ballot produced these results for the leaders:

McAdoo, 483.5; Smith, 321; Davis, 70.5; Robinson, 44; Underwood, 25.5; Ralston, 31.

On this ballot McAdoo lost one and nine-tenths. Smith gained nine-tenths. Robinson lost one. Davis, Underwood and Ralston were unchanged.

RALSTON STARTS.

When the 49th ballot started Senator Ralston picked up five votes in Illinois. It was the first move that had been cast for him outside his own State. The five were taken from John W. Davis.

In Maine one and one-half votes that had been going to Davis switched to Underwood.

One Minnesota vote was switched from Cox to Ralston.

LaFollette Will Make Campaign Over Radio

Cleveland, July 3 (I.N.S.).—The campaign of Senator LaFollette, as an independent candidate for the Presidency will be fought chiefly over the radio, because of his age and the danger of impairing his health through an extended travelling and stump-speaking campaign.

As the campaign settles down in the homestretch his managers declared that La-Follette would speak in the larger cities.

Tom Walsh, of Montana, swings gavel and could have stopped Bryan's speech on great hombres. Prepare for shock! Bryan named him one of the greatest. Did gavel swing closing speech? Yes, it did not!

THIS IS LAST CONVENTION OF 'NOISE' DECLARES BRYAN

KLAN AND WET ISSUE KILLED

Time Has Come to Reform Entire Plan of Nominating Candidates

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

New York, July 3.—Mr. McAdoo's vote rose from 415 on the thirty-first ballot to 505 on the forty-second. Underwood, Robinson, Salisbury, Ralston, Ritchie, Cox and Glass still hold their States.

If McAdoo could get them, it would give him almost enough to nominate him on the two-thirds rule.

Col. W. J. Bryan

There is no telling how long they will hold out, or to whom they will go when they leave the favorite son. I do not know of anything better to consider than the effect that this convention will have on future conventions. One thing is certain, viz: that more attention will be given to the rights of the delegates, and less to the passions of the gallery.

WETS WERE HOPEFUL.

The situation is exceptional this year, because two issues that arouse feeling had the New York portion of the audience thoroughly aroused.

The wets were hopeful of forcing the convention to declare in favor of some modification of the present enforcement law, while the opponents of the Klan were determined to secure an open denunciation of the organization.

It is not likely that two such questions will enter so largely into the consideration of a locality. But no matter where the convention is located or what the local conditions are, it is time to reform the entire plan of the convention.

It has been the practice to sell conventions to the highest bidder, but the practice is indefensible, and to use another anti-trust phrase, "intolerable."

Hereafter the National Committee should select the most convenient place and sell the tickets, apportioning them, as far as the demand will justify, among the States in proportion to population.

The income derived from them would furnish all the money necessary for the payment of convention expenses and leave a surplus for the campaign committee.

WHERE TICKETS GO.

When a city gives a large guarantee to secure the convention, it naturally secures a large number of tickets, and these are so distributed as to give advantage to residents of the city, even to the exclusion of those who come long distances to attend convention, if it were held in a ball.

But this is the least of the evils. There is no reason why there should be an enormous hall, with commodious galleries.

The work of the convention—and surely it is important enough to have the first consideration—is entirely subordinated to the pleasure of visitors.

This would be an entirely different convention, if it were held in a hall only sufficient for the delegates, alternates and the press.

Visitors could be entertained in other halls, where the persons in attendance could hear the proceedings over the radio or listen to the prominent men who attend the convention. As it is, only a few can be heard.

Why should the best political speakers of the party, gathered from all over the country, be denied a hearing, and the people who attend be denied the valuable privilege of seeing, hearing, and sizing up the public men of the party?

CAN HEAR ONLY FEW.

In a hall as large as Madison Square Garden, only a few are able to make themselves heard, so that the audience is not only denied the privilege of hearing a large number of speakers, but also of hearing any number distinctly.

Scattered among the delegates are men of great eloquence and long experience. They are now mute observers of a pantomime. With such a battery of speakers as assembled on an occasion of this kind, we ought to be able to delight the people of the convention city, and even people of surrounding cities.

We are suffering a very irritating annoyance that can be easily removed, and we are reducing to a minimum the pleasure and instruction that a national convention ought to give.

Every great reform is the result of an experience; the experience of the delegates in New York ought to be turned to the advantage of future campaigns.

If it is, this will be the last big hall filled with noise, in which a convention will sit.

Mayor Hylan has done everything possible to police the hall and to protect the convention, but the task is too great.

ODDS ARE EASIER AGAINST McADOO

New York, July 3.—Wall street betting odds against Smith and John W. Davis for presidential nomination closed at 3½ to 1. They were the same against Underwood, Ralston, Ritchie, Cox and Glass. McAdoo's chances are rates at 6 to 1 against, as against 7 to 1 yesterday. The odds against dark horses range from 10 to 1 up to 25 to 1.

SAWYER THREATENS TO VOTE 'COOLIDGE'

New York, July 3.—The Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, one of the Smith enthusiasts, said that if Ralston becomes the nominee of the Democratic convention, he will rise in his place on the final ballot and cast his vote for Calvin Coolidge. "That will give this convention something to think about," Sawyer said. "It will show them that they cannot continue to slap the States of the North and the East in the face at every convention and then expect us to go through with them in November."

RALSTON AND SMITH MAY BE CHOICE

Taggart, Brennan and Other Leaders Confer in Effort to Break Deadlock

By GEORGE L. HOLMES

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3 (I.N.S.).—Leaders of the rival Democratic factions came to the Garden fresh from a series of conferences, the most significant of which was participated in by George E. Brennan of Illinois, Joseph M. Uffey of Pennsylvania, Norman E. Mack of New York and Tom Taggart of Indiana.

Taggart's participation was the cause of much speculation.

Reports were current that after McAdoo has had an opportunity to make something for a few more ballots and Smith has had his run, Senator Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana, Taggart's candidate, is to be their apparent with Smith to be proposed for the Vice-Presidency.

Ralston was one of the "eligibles" named by William Jennings Bryan in his effort to swing the convention to one of his own choosing. The Democratic organizations in Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York would just as soon see Ralston get it as anyone if Smith is eliminated.

As the delegates assembled in the Garden there were reports, too, that McAdoo's managers had succeeded in making some headway in Carter Glass delegation of twenty-four Virginians and might "pick up a few" votes there in the early balloting.

At the same time, however, friends of the Virginia Senator who was one of Bryan's "ineligibles," were working quietly on the Missouri delegation in his behalf. McAdoo's Missouri delegates said the delegation would stick to him "for a few ballots anyway," before transferring their favor elsewhere.

The conference between Taggart and Brennan was the first real get-together meeting between them, the coolness arose a week ago over the Indiana leader's refusal to help Brennan and his colleagues in the anti-Klan fight. It was duly respected accordingly.

WOMEN OPEN HOMES TO AID DELEGATES

New York, July 3.—A number of New York women have opened their homes to women delegates and alternates attending the convention and invitations are being extended especially to those pressed for funds, it became known.

It was said the New York women, irrespective of political beliefs, want to help the women delegates remaining in this city to take part in the nomination of the Vice-President.

LA FOLLETTE IS ASKED TO RUN BY 3D PARTY

Formal Request Made on Senator as Progressives Gather for Cleveland Convention

Cleveland, July 3 (A.P.).—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin today was asked formally to permit the use of his name as a presidential candidate by the National Committee of the conference for Progressive political action which opens its convention here tomorrow.

A sub-committee drew up a message to the Senator which was submitted to the full committee for approval and then dispatched to Washington.

A favorable reply is expected by the leaders of the Cleveland gathering. They said it would probably be brought by messenger from the national capital or entrusted to the hands of some delegate to the convention, so that it might be given to the convention late Friday.

A big influx of delegates was expected today. Among these was William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America. While accredited as a delegate and entitled to a seat in the convention, he was given full power to bind his organization, his instructions being to report back on the results achieved.

Many Socialists, who will take part in the National Convention of that party opening July 6, were also here in the role of observers, although their organization is reported as an official unit of the conference.

Morris Hillquit, a member of the National Committee of the Socialists, is also a member of the National Committee of the Progressive Conference.

He said that if the conference shows signs of being a permanent political organization "and not simply a one-campaign affair, we will not quarrel about whether it is called a party."

Regardless of this detail, however, the launching of the La Follette candidacy is the firm determination of every delegate to the conference who has thus far announced himself.

MISSOURI AGAINST McADOO, SAYS REED

Kansas City, July 3 (By A.P.).—If William G. McAdoo receives the Democratic nomination for President "his defeat in this State (Missouri) is as certain, as inevitable as that the sun shall arise and set upon election day," said Senator James A. Reed in his side room here. The statement, replying to one made in New York by David Ladd Rockwell, McAdoo campaign manager for Mr. McAdoo, said the people of Missouri "will not sanction the rule of Mr. Doheny or of high crime against the United States government and, at the same time, elect Doheny's attorney to the high office of President of the United States."

Bryan Queered the Show, Says Gallivan

New York, July 3.—Congressman Gallivan of Boston gave his convention ticket away and left for home.

"I've had enough of this convention," he said. "Bryan has queered the show. Calvin Coolidge is the luckiest man who ever occupied the White House. It looks to me as if Smith was done for. That being so, I have little further interest in what will be done here."

MAYOR CURLEY SEES VICTORY FOR SMITH

Mayor and Mrs. Curley arrived home from a ten day visit at the Democratic convention in New York, convinced, the mayor said, that Governor Smith of New York will be nominated for President.

Mayor Curley

Mayor Curley cited as a significant fact that a block of votes was offered Smith's managers for the asking, but that it was quietly turned down, because the Smith forces were not at that time ready to take advantage of it.

The workings of a National Convention were amazing to the mayor, he said, because so different from State politics. He had been at a loss to understand how the game was played, and added: "If I were a candidate and a block of votes was offered me, I'd take them before the other fellow could steal them away from me."

It's a Five-and-Ten Convention

By BUGS BAER

New York, July 3—Broadcast from Woolworth political department:

With a nation's life at stake, the Democrats still continue to dish up five-and-ten politics.

This country will be one hundred and forty-nine years old tomorrow.

At Madison Square Garden it sounds like a two-year old.

There is more double crossing than there is in a Winter tick-tack toe.

The Indians' complaint about the white man was that the white man spoke with a double tongue.

The Indians have it.

ALL HOPE FOR 'GLORIOUS 4TH' NOMINATION

Celebrate the Great Day by Deciding on Who Will Be Candidate

By JO SWERLING

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3.—It is the fervent hope of everybody here that the Democratic party will celebrate the Fourth of July by nominating a candidate.

If not, there'll be no "safe and sane Fourth" in this convention hall, which begins more and more to assume the appearance of a Milk hotel.

The snores of delegates who have been missing their sleep mingle with the monotonous drone of the clerk calling the roll.

The Rhode Island delegation voting ballot after ballot ten strong for Smith, does not suspect that at the Vanderbilt Hotel on the roof is a representative of the state who is strong for McAdoo. This is the famous McAdoodle rooster, indentified as "Rhode Island" red and he has been helping to keep harrassed delegates awake in the hours when the sun begins to raise over the battle area.

Pattangall of Maine, who read the minority report on the Klan, has become one of the conspicuous figures of the convention by virtue of his masterly defense of the plank, and there is no doubt that it has helped his candidacy for Governor of Maine. He is a writer, a lawyer and as has been discovered since the convention began, an orator of considerable power.

The Massachusetts delegate who cast his vote for Mrs. Carroll Miller of Pennsylvania for President is Arthur A. Hendricks of Brockton, alderman and lumberman. Asked why he threw his vote to Mrs. Miller, Hendricks said:

"Ever since he made her stirring speech nominating Governor Smith and spoke so passionately against the Klan, I thought she should have some special recognition from this assembly. My own mother is big enough and brave enough and wise enough to occupy any position in the world. There must be many more women like her, and Mrs. Miller seems to be one. That's why I gave her my vote."

Hendricks was rewarded for his gallantry personally by Mrs. Miller, who expressed her thanks graciously, saying: "Some or later a woman will run for President, and you will be remembered as a pioneer."

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican national committeeman of Bath, Me., was a visitor at Maine delegation headquarters at the Murray Hill. Mr. Sewall is a son of Arthur Sewall, who was a candidate for the vice-presidency with William Jennings Bryan in 1896.

How many professions can one woman take up and succeed in? A good half dozen is the answer in the case of Dr. Anna B. Parker, delegate from New Hampshire. The practice of medicine, the ministry, marriage, welfare work and politics are only one of which is a life time work for the average woman—Mrs. Parker has entered into with fine success. Although born in New Hampshire she spent twenty-seven of her most active years in Boston, where she practiced medicine. During that time she was also ordained a minister of the Unitarian church.

"TOO OLD TO RUN NOW," SAYS BRYAN

New York, July 3.—"I'm too old"—that was the laconic reply of William Jennings Bryan when a New Jersey delegate asked him if he would accept the presidential nomination if "the lightning struck."

"I ran thrice and the capitalists knifed me, and now I am too old," Bryan said.

It's a Long Trail

By RUBE GOLDBERG

New York, July 3.—From now on, the delegates will sleep in their twin chairs and use the ballot charts for sheets. The voice of the chairman of the Texas delegation will be their alarm clock.

The greatest commotion in the convention followed announcement that because of the numerous losses of watches, stick-pins, fountain pens, shoulder braces, porus plasters, corkscrews, dandruff rakes and dice, a lost-and-found department had been established in the basement.

Some-dutiful three lost candidates were returned. But nobody claimed them.

Many male alternates showed up looking for news of their wives. Other miscellaneous articles turned in included cash, hotel bills, egg shells, whiskers, automat slugs, used tooth-picks and last week's wash.

Twenty-four States have definitely decided to take up their permanent abode in the Garden. Many of the ladies have already been seen cooking beef stew. Well, don't get discouraged. We will all have a good rest over the Fourth, and maybe some of us will have the good fortune to have our heads blown off by fireworks and we won't have to go back to the convention.

The balloting will be resumed on the Fifth, and the candidates will be eliminated by hardening of the arteries. The one who can live long enough to attend the funerals of all the others will win.

HAPGOOD LAUDS TACTICS OF BRYAN

Declares Commoner Maligned by Foes Who Say He Is Booming Own Game

New York, July 3 (Universal).—As I sit in the Democratic National Convention and listen once again to "Alabama casts her twenty-four votes for Underwood" an envelope is handed to me.

It contains a communication from my old acquaintance known to the public as Mr. Zero. He puts forward William J. Bryan for the Presidency, and states that he is the proper candidate for the religious and the moral, for women and for the poor and needy. Mr. Bryan, when Mr. McAdoo drops out, will do his best to see that a candidate is nominated who is progressive in the Western sense. His enemies say he is for his brother or himself and for no one else.

The most interesting feature has been Mr. Bryan's appearance on the platform. He is instructed for McAdoo and yet he chooses to remind his fellow Democrats that there are others.

IN DANIELS' FAVOR.

The reference to Josephus Daniels comes at an appropriate time, since it is known Daniels is one of very few men, who have received one ballot or more and who would have La Follette's active support. Others of whom the same can be said are Walsh of Montana, Huston Thompson of Colorado, and, I presume, Sweet of Colorado.

About Senator Robinson, third man mentioned by Mr. Bryan, no doubt it. The Democrats and the Progressive Block worked fairly well together at Washington, and the La Follette people think fairly well of the Democratic leader, but they are not crazy about him.

RALSTON AND WALSH.

The endorsement of Ralston is the most significant of Bryan's endorsements, in one sense, as what will happen when Taggart and Ione the Ralston vote could possibly be told.

In another sense, the earnest endorsement of Walsh is the most important. It answers those who have been saying that Bryan is scheming to support a Catholic.

Mr. Bryan knows how to take care of himself on the platform. His speech and the evasive answer of interruptions from the smith followers.

Also Chairman Walsh knows how to handle himself. The Smith people are not doing themselves any good at all by their violence. Indeed, it may well be questioned whether Smith has been a gainer by bringing the convention to this city, where the behavior of his followers has done him perhaps more harm than good.

FOR PROGRESSIVE.

Also I am not sure Mr. Bryan has helped the McAdoo cause, in spite of the fact that his tribute was so well deserved. What I am sure of is that he has helped the cause of those who wish an unmistakable progressive candidate selected.

It was intended primarily as a blow at Mr. Davis, this speech of Mr. Bryan's, but the ill-judged interruptions of some Smith followers cause the swift reply on liquor, an issue about which singularly little has been said.

Mr. Bryan did not mention Mr. Glass, the truth is that while Bryan realizes the very eminent qualifications and splendid character of Mr. Glass, he is against his nomination, though not nearly so seriously as he is against Davis and Smith.

Those Democrats who pay no attention to the Bryan and La Follette point of view need a little information. If a conservative is nominated by this convention La Follette is likely to receive three million votes.

In addition to the states that he can surely carry, like Wisconsin, Minnesota, the two Dakotas, Idaho, Montana, and Washington, it had better be remembered that he has a good fighting chance in Michigan, Iowa, Oregon, Arizona, New Mexico and even Illinois.

WARNS OF LABOR.

The Democrats had not better get too cocky over that fact, merely because La Follette is a Republican. He is extremely strong with labor and no human being can say that he will not carry a conservative Democrat even more than he will hurt Coolidge.

Take Illinois as an illustration. Perhaps 400,000 laboring men and women in that state alone will vote against Davis because of his bitter anti-labor record.

COL. GASTON REFUTES CONVENTION STORY

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3.—Colonel William A. Gaston denied he had any Vice-Presidential aspirations, and refuted a story that he was backing financially those delegates who were running short of funds with the understanding that they would vote for him for Vice-President.

RADIO AMERICAN

On the Air Last Night
—By THE LISTENER—

Another day gone by and the Convention still in force. I notice another station which has joined the ranks of Convention broadcasters. WMAF. This station will be remembered by many of the fans who had sets last year.

It is located in South Dartmouth, near New Bedford, and is owned by Col. E. H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green. WMAF has been noted for its excellent quality and beautiful programs, but I fear these will not be of much use unless something is done to prevent the interference between WJAR, WGI and WMAF. All three, together with WHN in New York, are 360-meter stations, and while the waves are staggered somewhat, there still seems bound to be interference. This will seriously affect reception from any one of these stations, excepting in cases where the receiving outfit is quite close to the station tuned in.

Listened to WGI for awhile last evening, but it wasn't any use. His program sounded like the peanut whistle in the corner drug store. This was caused by heterodyning interference from the other 360-metre stations.

Undoubtedly many folks who were trying to pick up WGI thought the squeals came from their next door neighbors, but such was not the case. This is a condition which will prevail from time to time until a ruling is made by the Department of Commerce to cope with the situation.

The excellent singing which came from Madison Square Garden at the start of the evening session, was a welcome innovation. Now that the novelty has gone from this part of broadcast, it is well that occasional music may be expected to relieve the monotony of talking.

Picked up WCBR again last night. This portable-broadcasting station is doing a fine work, traveling around to the different theatres and having folks how the trick is done. It is also impressive to hear some of the high class talent that is produced by the cities surrounding Boston.

I heard a young lady sing "A Kiss in the Dark" from WCBR and if I didn't know it was coming from Quincy, could have easily taken it for one of "Roxy's" numbers from the Capitol Theatre.

The WCBR announcer said there would be a different program from coast from this theatre every night this week. I picked up WCBR a little before 8 o'clock. His quality is excellent and he is pleasant to listen to.

In spots where the interference wasn't too bad, I picked up Connor's Melody Boys, broadcasting out of WGI. They struck me as a first-class team of dance music artists. I think the biggest asset of any dance orchestra is to keep perfect time. They will notice defects along this line as readily as a radio listener, whose ear subconsciously gets trained to such things.

WHITE SETS RECORD FOR MIKE TIME

J. Andrew White, announcer for WJZ and WJY claims the long distance championship for the week, as a result of his work at the stormy convention session and the Mills Hotel broadcasting hours.

White took his place before the microphone and started the convention story at 10:30 in the morning, and continued until 6 o'clock. At 9:15 p. m. he began telling the tale of the Milk Fund bouts, and talked almost continuously until 1:45 a. m., bringing the total to nine hours and forty-five minutes of announcing.

White was talking into the telephone again when the convention opened at 10:29 the following morning.

"PEEK-A-BOO" SHOW TO BE BROADCAST

The entire show, "Peek-a-Boo," will be broadcast tomorrow evening from the stage of the Gaiety Theatre, where it is playing. It will be carried by WNAC, the Shepard Stores station, on 278 meters. The broadcast will start at 8:05 p. m.

Radio Queries

I would like to build a two-tube portable radio set, to be about the size of a portable typewriter, which will give long distance reception on headphones, selectivity and clarity. The Superfex might measure up except that I have not heard any DX reception reaching the Pacific coast. I have no much B battery, and has a loud line hum. Kindly send answer to L. F. E.

Your query may have general interest, as the experimenting here is: What you ask is a portable set is little more than one step in the present development. There is no DX reception in Summer. Last Spring a superfex did pull in the Pacific coast. All sets use the same amount of B battery, as far as we know. The line hum, when present, is not heard during reception periods. The Superfex is an excellent portable set, but there is no tube set which will do what you ask.

I would like to get the panel layout for the Superfex and also the wiring diagram and the list of parts.
M. T. B.

These are being mailed you.

I am using a 4 to 1 audio transformer and a semi-fixed crystal. With 201-A tubes I get weeks with or without crystal.
D. C. S.

More turns on the primary of No. 1 unit are needed. Also try a different capacity for C6.

Can you give me some notes on installing a radio set in a Ford. I have a 4-tube Super that I built some time ago, but it requires a storage battery.
P. L.

Trace out the wiring of the car to see which side of the circuit is grounded. This can be checked, you can make a plug to fit in the dash light for lighting the bulb. Bring an antenna wire up across the top of the car. You will not need to make a ground, as the "ground" of the car circuit will act as a counterpoise.

MARRIAGE OFF, SAYS MAMA

Parent of Pretty Newton Singer Claims Many Women Chased Luce for Money

When Mama Golding relents and not till then, will wedding bells ring out for pretty Alice Golding, twenty, Newton choir singer, and W. Andrew Luce, fifty-eight-year-old millionaire safe manufacturer and widower of Brookline.

After a whirlwind courtship they were to wed in March. The date was changed to Wednesday.

Then Luce suffered an eleventh-hour change of heart. He disappeared and said it "all off."

From Bridgeport he telephoned Miss Golding and talked forgiveness.

The girl said late Wednesday that she and her aged fiancee would be married within twenty-four hours.

Now Mrs. Charles Golding, the girl's mother, has her say.

"My daughter will not marry that man—it is impossible," she said today. "Although he is fifty-eight and my Alice but twenty years old, I might consent to the union but for other things.

GONE FOR A REST.

"First and most important is that Mr. Luce has suddenly changed his mind about marrying Alice in the Catholic church. They were to have been married by Father Curtin in our church rectory.

"When my daughter went to call upon Mr. Luce yesterday as ... apartment in Brookline she found that he had fled. He left a note saying he was going away for a rest ALONE.

"Of course that was his excuse for changing his mind about the ceremony in the Catholic church. He is a Protestant and a Mason and some of his friends and associates have been talking against the wedding I suppose," Mrs. Golding said.

"I don't give a snap for a man who changes his mind so much anyway. If my daughter were to marry him now he'd probably suffer from another change of heart and mind in two or three months.

CHASED BY MANY.

Mrs. Golding continued:

"And I know that Mr. Luce has been chased by many designing women ever since the death of his first wife three years ago. They were after his money.

"What is money, anyway, if there is not happiness and love in the home? I cannot see happiness for my Alice as Mrs. Luce under present conditions—the marriage is off. You can say that. My daughter will not marry him."

Luce lives in a sumptuously furnished apartment at 1647 Beacon street, Brookline.

The Golding family home is at 171 Thatcher street, Newton Center. The May and December romance had its inception when pretty Alice called at the office of Mr. Luce. Her sister is employed there as a secretary.

It was a case of "love at first sight."

Although she was ready to forgive her aged and errant lover for his wedding-day jilting of her, pretty Alice will abide by her mother's wishes.

NEW TRIAL FOR BUCKET SHOP KING

George Graham Rice, Former Hub Broker, Wins Plea in New York Court

George Graham Rice, ex-Bostonian and New York bucket shop king, has been granted a new lease of liberty by the Appellate Division in New York, which has reversed his four and one-half-year-old conviction on an embezzlement charge and granted him a new trial.

Rice is remembered in Boston as the inspiring genius in the firm of R. H. Schefleh & Co., of Boston and New York, which enticed much easy-going money from the pockets of Hub men. He served a year in jail for his activities in connection with that notorious bucket shop. That was in 1911.

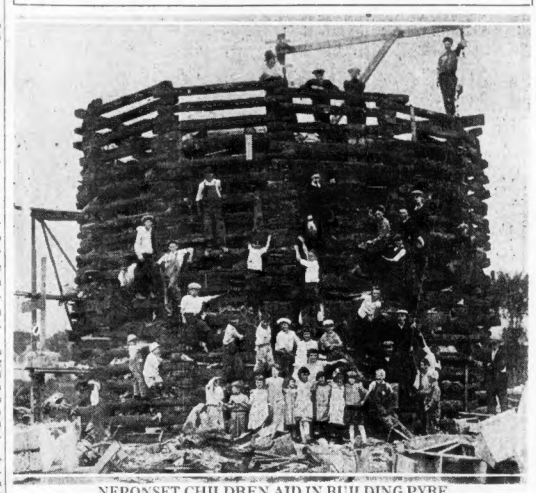
His next tiff with the law occurred in 1920, when he was convicted of appropriating for his own uses $721, given him by Randolph W. Hartman of Mansfield, O. He was released shortly after sentence was pronounced on a writ of reasonable doubt. The recent reversal of his conviction is the outcome of a hearing for retrial.

Rice has been called the original prototype of "Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford." In his time he has made and lost several fortunes.

As Simon Jacob Herzig, his real name, he was committed as a mere youth to the Elmira, N. Y., reformatory for stealing money from his parents. Shortly after his release, he was recommitted for a term of four years for forgery.

Then he changed his name to Rice and began the spectacular career of race track and stock gambling, which was not halted until he pleaded guilty to the bucket shop charge in 1911. That trial cost the State of New York nearly $40,000 and was one of the most expensive and lengthy on record in that State.

GETTING READY FOR BIG BONFIRE



NEPONSET CHILDREN AID IN BUILDING PYRE

With a base nearly 100 feet square and reaching 75 feet in the air, the bonfire pile on Neponset playgrounds is claimed by the citizens o f that section to be the biggest in the city. It is to be touched off tonight by Fire Commissioner Glynn.

FUNCKE IS LOCKED UP INSIDE

Stubborn Harvard Scientist Refuses to Leave Home Lost for Taxes

Frank A. Funcke's "hermitage" at Beacon and Eustis streets in Somerville was put on wheels today and moved away from its ancient site.

Throughout the bleat Funcke, a lightcrew hermit of stubborn will, remained locked within the house which he has made his castle.

Workmen shouted, foremen barked orders, neighbors cackled delightedly, but the recluse refused to emerge from his solitude or even to peer from the windows of his home-in-transit.

From the interior of the house came sounds, however, which indicated that somebody was in great perturbation and disquiet of spirit. Doors slammed, chairs were kicked over, there was the steady tramp of a man pacing nervously up and down.

"Speech," yelled ribald members of the crowd, determined to get their money's worth in the way of entertainment.

FUNCKE NOT ON VIEW.

A photographer was on hand, intending to get a picture of the embattled recluse, but when the house was half way to its new site, Funcke still was in splendid isolation.

Funcke is a Harvard graduate, a chemist of parts, an interested student of all the sciences. He is about forty-five years old, but looks much older.

He was born in the house in which he was moved today, and lost it through non-payment of taxes. Some time ago it was bought by Israel Waldman of Chelsea.

Waldman wants to build three one-story stores on the site of the Funcke home, and has been trying by ejectment writ and otherwise to get rid of the university bred recluse since last March.

Failing to get him out of the house, he determined to move house and hermit together.

HERMIT TO STICK.

James F. Robertson of Revere was the contractor who undertook the job. The house was to be moved to another corner of the same lot, but on the Beacon street side.

There it was to be left, jacked up, for the present. Later Waldman plans to put in a foundation and reconnect the plumbing.

"Apparently Funcke intends to stick right in the house as long as it stands," said Robertson.

"I don't think Waldman would object to his occupancy of the building as long as he pleases, even if he stands by his principles and refuses to pay rent. But I don't just see how even a hermit, in these modern days, can continue to live in a house that has no plumbing, no drinking water, no conveniences at all."

BOMB EXPLODES IN BOY'S ROOM; 5 FINGERS GONE

Sixteen-year-old John Cerullo lost three fingers on one hand and two on the other today when a bomb exploded in his bedroom at No. 111 Orleans street, East Boston.

The boy, son of Anthony Cerullo, and the second eldest of nine children, was picking at the bomb when it blew up, shattering the room and hurling him against the wall.

He was rushed to the East Boston Relief Hospital, where physicians declare he may lose of the sight of both eyes.

The youth told the police he found the bomb at the Cottage street playground, where a fireworks display was held several nights ago. In the police belief, however, the bomb was a home-made affair, constructed from a one-pound tobacco tin.

The explosion caused consternation in the district.

SAMARIA COMES IN WITH CABINS ALMOST EMPTY

Because our long, lean nations, by law before immigrants into America can even embark on ships coming here, have not reached Europe yet.

And the new immigration quota opened two days ago—on July 1. The "locale" on the visa blanks is put up to the public printer in Washington.

Barbara Mayor.

The blanks were supposed to be ready and in Europe in time for lifting of the bars on the new quotas. Last year, at this time, New York and Boston harbors were clogged with vessels, crowded with immigrants, and immigration officials at both ports were working night and day passing the new arrivals in. The same condition held in July, 1922, when the quota rush began.

It was estimated by Cunard officials that, on this trip, the company lost $35,000 because of Uncle Sam's procrastination.

But if the immigrants did not arrive, the Samaria in its list of 190 passengers, carried some well-known Bostonians. These included: Mrs. Allan Forbes, Mrs. Roger Sturgis and her daughters; Miss Elizabeth Beale, Mrs. Morton Dexter, George W. Mitten, of the Jordan Marsh Company, and his wife; Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Mitten, W. T. Davidson, S. J. Burrotzi, Italian violinist, and his wife.

In the ship's hospital was Miss Gwendolyn Hart, "down with the measles," and traveling with Mrs. E. P. Stickney, wife of Dr. E. P. Stickney, and her daughter. The physician met the boat at the dock and took Miss Hart to a hospital in an ambulance.

FOUR JAPS ARE HELD IN U. S. FLAG INSULT

Tokio, July 3 (I.N.S.)—Four youths were reported under arrest today in connection with the tearing down of the American flag over the United States Embassy Tuesday. A Japanese seized in Osaka is said to have been the one who committed the actual slashing of the flag.

It is said that several officials have tendered their resignations as a result of the incident. Conservative newspapers deplore the affair and warn the people against any further disorders.

Panama—A squadron of army airplanes has been sent by the Canal authorities to destroy the floating derelict schooner Panvejo, menacing navigation off Costa Rica.

Leningrad—Seven million pounds of frozen meat from the Argentine, the second shipment since pre-war days, has arrived. Part of the cargo will be placed on public sale while the remainder will be supplied to the Red army.

Madrid—Ten Spanish officers and fifty men were killed or wounded in fighting with rebel tribesmen on the Moroccan battle front during the night. Reinforcements are being sent from Malaga and Alicante.

POPE RECEIVES SON OF MAYOR CURLEY

Rome, July 2.—Pope Pius granted a private audience to James M. Curley, Jr., son of Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, who was presented to him by Mgr. Charles A. O'Hearn, rector of the American College in Rome.

J. M. Curley, Jr.

The Curley boy was accompanied by Dr. M. J. English of Boston, who has the Pontiff when he was a simple apostolic visitor in Warsaw where Dr. English was present as a member of the American Mission.

NEW ENGLAND WEEK COMMITTEE MEETS

Bankers, bakers, doctors, lawyers, and labor leaders got together to formulate plans for New England Week which has been set for September 15 to 20, inclusive.

John S. Lawrence was chosen chairman of the committee which is going to try to get New England people better acquainted with New England products. The other officers chosen yesterday were Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, vice-chairman; Joseph A. Parks of the Industrial Accident Board, treasurer; Henry I. Harriman of the New England Power Company, secretary; and Lawrence J. Watson 2d, assistant secretary.

RUM TREATY WITH NORWAY RATIFIED

Washington, July 2 (By Universal Service).—Exchange of ratifications of the liquor treaty between Norway and the United States took place at the State Department today.

This government was represented by Secretary of State Hughes and Norway by Helmer Bryn, Norwegian minister here.

MEXICANS RELEASE AMERICAN DOCTOR

Del Rio, Tex., July 3.—Dr. Fred M. Rose of Del Rio, held by Mexican authorities since Sunday at Villa Acuna on instructions from Mexico City, was released today. Secretary of State Hughes had made strong representations to the Mexican government either to release Dr. Rose or file specific charges against him. It had been stated unofficially that Rose had been connected with gun smuggling to Mexican rebels. This Dr. Rose denied.

BIGGEST '4TH' CELEBRATION PLANNED

The 148th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence will be observed tomorrow with glowing oratory, patriotic enthusiasm and the flash and boom of fireworks.

No efforts will be spared to make the day the most memorable of the year.

The official program of the City of Boston celebration is packed to the brim with interesting events.

Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn appeals to the public for a "safe and sane" celebration. Also, that parents keep a watchful eye on the manner in which their children "carry on" with their fireworks.

PARADE TO COMMON.

The official opening of the City celebration will be preceded at 9 in the morning by a parade escorting the Mayor, guests and the committee from the City Hall to the Common. There, following band selections and an address by the Mayor, the National and Municipal flags will be raised by the Mayor.

The scene will then be shifted to the Old State House balcony, State street. There at 10 o'clock, the Declaration of Independence will be read by Joseph F. Donoghue of the English High School, just as the original document was read to the people of Boston in 1776 from the selfsame balcony.

ORATIONS AT OLD SOUTH.

The orations will follow. The custom had been to deliver these in Faneuil Hall, but, owing to extensive repairs now being made to insure the preservation of the "Cradle of Liberty," they will be given in the Old South Meeting House.

In the afternoon, a Pageant, "The Pied Piper," including a cast of 200 children will be presented at the Frog Pond.

The pageant will be the colorful story of "The Pied Piper," told in a dozen episodes by 200 children from ten settlement houses in the city. It has been in preparation for several months under the auspices of Imogene Hogle Putnam.

LIVING FLAG ON COMMON

The spectacle of a living flag of 700 children will be seen on the Common at 5:30 in the afternoon. The children are from the Mission Church School and were organized for this occasion by Rev. John O'Leary, C. SS. R., rector, and Sister Mary John, principal.

From 8 to 10 in the evening the Common will be the scene of a community demonstration. There will be mass singing, instrumental music, and electrical displays, as well as addresses by prominent men.

A display of fireworks will follow. Throughout the day, athletic contests of all kinds, a rowing regatta on the Charles River Basin, yacht races off City Point, and swimming races at Charles River Basin, will furnish plenty of attractions for the sport-loving element.

Vet With Commercial Training Anxious to Land Job

Here is a veteran who has had thorough commercial training over a four year period, including practical experience. He is 24 years old and served in the 17th Infantry. He lives in Pawtucket, and hopes for employment somewhere in Rhode Island or southeastern Massachusetts.

If you can use this man communicate with the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Special Committee on Employment of Rehabilitated Veterans.

TRAFFIC IN ARMS BANNED IN MEXICO

Mexico City, July 3.—Traffic in arms and munitions except those needed for sports was prohibited today throughout Mexico. The War Department considered the measure necessary for the peace of the country.

NEPONSET ALL SET FOR BIG NIGHT BEFORE

Neponset is all set for the biggest Night Before the Fourth celebration in the history of that section with a giant bonfire and all the "fixings."

The festivities will get under way early this afternoon and will continue until the holiday is over. Nothing has been overlooked to make the day one long to be remembered, with open air dancing which will include everything from an Indian war dance to the latest jazz steps, twilight sports, a midway, historical addresses and a grand reunion.

The big feature is the bonfire which Neponset residents claim, is the largest in the city. Railroad sleepers have been used for the most part in the building of the huge pile, which measures about 100 feet at the base rising to a height of near ly seventy-five feet. It is expected the fire will burn for at least eight hours.

The Redberry Council, K. of C. and the Neponset Wanderers, as well as several other organizations in the Neponset-Dorchester district are in charge of the affair. State and City officials have been invited to attend while Fire Commissioner Glynn is slated to touch off the bonfire.

CHILD LABOR BILL OPPOSED IN GEORGIA

Atlanta, Ga., July 3.—The lower house of the Georgia Legislature, by a vote of 170 to 3, approved a resolution to reject the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution.

The Senate approved the same resolution by a unanimous vote.

VILLA NOW BEING COMPARED WITH BRILLIANT GEORGE DIXON

FILIPINO IS FIT FOR WOODS

By JACK CONWAY

PANCHO VILLA, world's flyweight champion, is being compared to the brilliant George Dixon, former featherweight king, since his impressive victory over Bud Taylor of Chicago at Brooklyn. Prior to his contest with Taylor, Villa had a difficult time winning over Frankie Ash, British flyweight. He then went forth and astonished the fans by the masterly way in which he disposed of Taylor.

The Chicago boxer is a bantamweight and had several pounds in weight on the little Brown Panther. Regardless of this handicap, Villa gave one of the greatest exhibitions of boxing and fighting ever witnessed in an Eastern ring.

Since winning the world's flyweight title from Jimmy Wilde, Villa has increased his popularity. This is because he has always been willing to go forth and battle allcomers.

WEE WILLIE WOODS, SCOTCH flyweight boss, will test the mettle of Villa in a ten-round contest at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building on next Thursday night. Woods received his ring training in fifteen and twenty-round contests in Scotland and England. He can stand a fast pace and so should make things interesting for Villa. In his last Boston start, Woods knocked out Eddie Polo of Waterville, Maine. New England flyweight boss, in seven rounds.

EDDIE SHEVLIN, NEW ENGland welterweight champion, tackles Nadde Healy, champion of the Provinces, at Halifax tonight. Healy has defeated Tommy Norton and Al Sears and aspires to add Shevlin to his list of victims. Inasmuch as Billy Henderson's protege recently won over Jimmy Jones, Tansey Norton, Eddie Burnbrook and Paul Doyle he should also come through with a victory this p. m. Right living and an intelligent mind have enabled Shevlin to defeat star performers at an age when most athletes are thinking of retiring.

ALTHOUGH Strangler Lewis won the decision over Stanley Stasiak in their recent championship bout, he failed to prove he is a better wrestler than the Polish champion. Stasiak did the cleaner and more effective work of the two grapplers. There was not anything questionable about the fall he scored which cannot be said of the two winning falls credited to Lewis. If the latter had not injured Stasiak by tossing him over the ropes, we might have a new world's heavyweight wrestling champion today.

JIM MALONEY, South Boston heavyweight, is prepared to tackle Joe Burke of Detroit, according to Manager Johnny McGrath. Maloney recently made a fine showing against Leo Gates in New York. According to New York newspapers, Maloney was winning up to the time that Gates "attacked" him with a break and knocked the South Boston boy out.

BATTLING McCREARY, world's colored light-heavyweight champion, is another husky who would like to mingle with Burke. McCreary is a vastly improved fighter since he placed himself under the management of Alex McLean and is capable of taking care of himself in the fastest of company. McCreary, incidentally, would like to wipe out the win that Burke scored over him more than a year ago at the Grand Opera House.

JOHNNY Vacca, Newton flyweight who has clouted considerable promise, has placed himself under the management of Johnny Buckley who has been so successful in directing Jack Sharkey to the front ranks of the heavyweight division. Vacca is a youth with an abundance of ability and should be heard from in the future. He is only eighteen years of age.

Small Pox Forces Greb-Stribling Out of Indiana

Michigan City, Ind., July 3.—William F. C. Fail, mayor of Michigan City, Ind., notified the Arena Boxing and Athletic Club, Inc., that the Young Stribling-Harry Greb boxing contest and other matches scheduled for July 4th in the open air arena here cannot be held until the ban is lifted on the smallpox quarantine in the adjacent State of Michigan, which, he said will be two weeks at least.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BOTH WIN IN NOVEL GOLF CONTEST

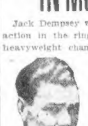
JACK DEMPSEY SHOWS PUNCH IN MOVIES

Jack Dempsey will not be seen in action in the ring this year. The heavyweight champion intends to devote his time to the movies. Tex Rickard originally planned to pit "Tiger Jack" against Harry Wills late in the Summer. The explosion of Wills in his recent tussle with Jack Dempsey Bartley Madden upset Rickard's plans. Tex will now devote his time to the promotion of a contest between Firpo and Wills on August 20.



Dempsey has surprised those who have seen him in his latest film, "Fight and Win" which is now showing at the Modern and Beacon theatres. Jack is one of the few athletes who is able to do his stuff before silver screen as well as he does it in the ring.

MEDFORD TEL. NINE GETS WRONG NUMBER

BIG REGATTA TO BE HELD ON CHARLES

One of Boston's annual sport events, the N. E. A. A. A. Fourth of July regatta on the Charles, promises good sport tomorrow.

The program on Friday morning will consist of eleven races. There are only two eight-oared events and the list of entries for each is limited, but there are sure to be thrills in every other race to atone for the lack of interest in the eights.

LAWRENCE RETAINS TWI LEAGUE LEAD

Lawrence Independents retained their narrow margin lead in the Boston Twilight League race by defeating Reading, 1 to 0 in a royal pitchers' battle staged at O'Sullivan Park here tonight. Successive doubles by McGinnis and Bradbury in the fourth frame resulted in the lone tally scored during the game.

Physicians Say Tennis is Not Harmful

London, July 3.—Suzanne Lenglen's breakdown has caused a lively discussion among physicians as to whether modern lawn tennis is too strenuous for girls. Here is the opinion of two women physicians:

Dr. Sloat Chester: "Tennis is a game particularly suitable for women, and all things being equal there can be no reason why women should not play as strenuous games as men."

Dr. Ethel Rentham: "There is no specific limit to what women can do any more than there is a limit to what men can do. It depends upon the individual and his or her environment and life training. It isn't strenuous play that hurts a normal woman. To give up one's whole life to tennis, however, is unwholesome. Physically, tennis is not harmful to the normal woman."

EPINARD RACES OUR 3 BEST

New York, July 3.—Epinard, star of the French turf, will meet America's best horses in three international races of six furlongs, one mile and one mile and a quarter during September and October at Belmont Park, Aqueduct and a Kentucky track, respectively, according to an announcement by the Jockey Club.

The six-furlong race to be held at Belmont Park and the mile at Aqueduct will carry added values of $25,000 each. An additional prize of $50,000 will be offered for the mile and a quarter event on a Kentucky track, for which the staying division will be named.

In charge of Pierre Wertheimer, his owner, and trainer, Eugene Leigh, Epinard will sail for the United States on the Berengaria this week and will train at Belmont Park and Saratoga.

NORWEGIANS BEAT U. S. SHOOTERS

Paris July 3.—Norway today won the four-man team running deer target shooting, scoring 160 out of a possible 200 points with 40 shots. Sweden was second with 154, and the United States third with 148. Major J. K. Boles, U. S. Field Artillery, scored 41, Sergeant Raymond Coulter, U. S. M. C., 37; Sergeant Dennis Fenton, U. S. Infantry, 32; Ralph C. Stokes, Washington, D. C., 38. Great Britain was fourth with 136, Finland fifth with 130 and Hungary sixth with 97.

HAWAIIAN GIRL BEATS MISS EDERLE

Paris, July 3.—The swimmers at Les Tourelles held trials to determine the entries in the several events which close today.

Gertrude Ederle

Marjechen Wehselau, the young Hawaiian girl, sprang a surprise by conquering Gertrude Ederle, the world's record holder at 100 meters, free style. Miss Ederle finished third, being beaten also by Ethel Lackie of Chicago. The time of the winner was 1 minute 12 4-5 seconds, which bettered the Olympic record by 2-5 seconds and was only 2-5 seconds short of Miss Ederle's mark.

In the trials for men, 200 metres breast stroke, Ralph Breyer, Northwestern University, made the best time, 2 minutes, 22 3-5 seconds. Wallace O'Connor, Yentce, Cal., was second, with 2 minutes, 22 4-5 seconds. John Farley, Illinois A. C., third, 2 minutes, 23 seconds. Duke Kahanamoku, Los Angeles A. C., disappointed his followers by taking 2 minutes, 31 seconds, the game as his brother, Sam Kahanamoku, Richard Howell, Northwestern University, was last, 2 minutes, 33 seconds.

Paul Wyatt, Uniontown Y. M. C. A., defeated Charles Pung, Hawaii, for the third place in the 100 metres backstroke, while in the women's 100 metres backstroke Florence Chamberg, San Diego, beat Mrs. Frances Schroth, San Francisco, for third entry.

Dilboy in Tie

Dilboy and Abbot Worsted battled to a 9-to-9 tie score last evening at Tufts Oval. Each team used three pitchers and all were reached for plenty of hits.

Helen Wills Regrets Illness of Mlle. Lenglen

Wimbledon, Eng., July 2.—"I am sorry for Mlle. Lenglen," said Miss Helen Wills, American tennis star, commenting this afternoon upon the French woman champion's withdrawal from the British tournament.

"But I still hope to meet her in the Olympic matches. I know it was a great blow to her to have to give up here."

HELEN WILLS TO PLAY FOR NET TITLE

Wimbledon, Eng., July 3.—All of the events in the Wimbledon tennis championship tournament reached the semi-final stage and the women's singles were carried up to the finals through the retirement of Mlle. Lenglen, world's champion, because of illness, an dthe victory of Miss Helen Wills, the American star, over Mrs. Phyllis Satterthwaite of Great Britain in the last but one match which the American champion must win in order to capture the title which has been held since the war by the superb Frenchwoman.

Helen Wills

When Mlle. Lenglen's resignation upon doctor's orders was announced it was added that her physician told her to go to bed and stay there, but she bobbed up in the competitors' stand, reminding there watching the play on the centre court from the first match to almost the end of the last one.

Her absence from the court itself had no apparent effect upon the popularity of the proceedings, every seat and every bit of standing room being occupied when Miss Wills, playing beautifully, triumphed over Mrs. Satterthwaite, 6—2, 6—1.

As a result of the French player's retirement, the long heralded encounter between Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Wills will not take place at Wimbledon and the American girl will meet Kathleen McKane in the final encounter Friday.

Two American teams reached the semi-finals in the men's doubles this afternoon. In the upper half R. Norris Williams, II., and Watson M. Washburn defeated Charles H. Kingsley and J. C. Masterman and will meet the Alonso brothers of Spain in the next to the last round.

In the lower half Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter beat Max Woseman and J. D. P. Wheatley of Great Britain and will meet Louis Raymond and P. D. B. Spence of South Africa in the semi-finals. Thus, there is a possibility that the final round will be an all-American affair.

NEPONSET JOINS GRANITE LEAGUE

The Neponset Town Team will play its first game in the Granite City League at the Dorchester Town Field on July Fourth, at 3:15 p. m., against the Milton Town Team.

With the addition of Neponset and the Dorchester Millstreams, together with Fore River, Wollaston, Atlantic and Milton Town Team, the fans of Dorchester are assured of some good baseball the remainder of the season.

U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM HOLDS FINAL WORKOUT TODAY

By LAWSON ROBERTSON,
Head Coach of American Olympic Team of 1924.

American Olympic Camp, Rocquencourt, France, July 3.—It is my opinion, supported by Coach Christie of the field men, that the American athletes are as well trained as humanly possible on the eve of the final day of intensive work today before the Olympic games begin.

I can personally vouch for the fact that the sprinters and middle-distance runners are ready, and Coach Christie has equally favorable reports on his charges, excepting Harold Osborne and Leroy Brown, our best high jumpers. Osborne, also, is the leading candidate for the Decathlon.

The injury to Brown's leg, which is lame from a strain, prevents any hard work of any kind until the high jump in the games on Sunday. Osborne's strained back is coming along nicely and he will be ready.

Glenn Hartranft, Ralph Hills and Clarence Houser, shotputters are tossing the ball fifty feet daily in workouts here in Rocquencourt. Pine nesent T. J. Lieb and Augustus Pope have been beating 150 feet in the discuss throw. Matt McGrath, the grand veteran, and Fred Tootell have been touching 170 feet for the hammer throw.

We fancy that "Soapy" Watters is the "dark horse" in the 100-meters run, and that Ray Watson is to be regarded in the same way in the 1500-meters, on a line through their workouts. The distance runners do not appear good as a whole. Johnny Romig, our best man, has recovered from a strained tendon and may score in the 5000-meters run.

The high and broad jumpers are working for speed only and will do no jumping now until the games.

I am nursing the sprinters like a mother. Charley Paddock, a very hard-working individual, finds the track in the Colombes Stadium much to his liking. However, I do not look for records there in the sprints. Loren Murchison, who was ill just prior and during the tryouts back home, is in the best shape he has been in since the Winter season. Chet Bowman and Jackson Scholz are fit and ready.

I have been watching Scholz carefully because of sun burns. He burns easily and this saps strength.

The entire team will work out today on the track outside the Stadium, and will spend the rest of the time before the games begin in light jogging and limbering up, not taking any chances of injuries on a poor track and field by strenuous endeavors.

I am proud to say that the Boys followed orders like soldiers, not breaking any training rules. They remained in absolute seclusion in Rocquencourt quarters.

Their reward will be an impressive victory, I hope and expect.

BANCROFT LOST TO BRAVES; TRIBE PLAYS ROBINS TODAY

LOSE FINAL TO PHILS, 3 TO 1

By NICK FLATLEY

The Braves, having lost their manager, for a while at least, and having fallen into seventh place, even below the Phillies, weren't in very good shape to start a series with the Flock Brooklyn Dodgers this afternoon.

Short Sports of All Sorts

Hugh McQuillan

New York—Hugh McQuillan, regular pitcher on the Giants' staff, has been fined and indefinitely suspended by Manager John Mc... for refusing to keep a curfew and violating other rules of the club. McQuillan was to be fined $100 when he did join Boston Tuesday.

New York—Earl Combs, promising Yankee outfielder, one of whose legs was broken in a contest at Cleveland several weeks ago, may be able to return to the game in August 15, club physicians announced after he had been examined here yesterday.

New Jersey—Pancho Villa, flyweight champion of the world, tonight knocked out Harry Katena in the fifth round of a scheduled twelve-round bout here.

Paris—The United States polo team will meet Great Britain today in the third match of the Olympic tournament, it was announced here yesterday.

Paris—Norman won the four-man team jumping race, the first event of the Olympic equestrian competition, when Lieut. Colonel Lequio, Major Guyot d'Asbeux and Lieut. Max Lamy, team of Orange, finished.

Stamford, Conn.—At the Connecticut Golf Women's Championship tournament at New Canaan Country Club, Miss Maurice McDonald defeated Miss Robert Lerch, 4 up and 3 to play, in the semi-finals. Miss Lerch, of New York, today at 3 p. m. and Miss Helen Hopper, of Andover, will meet Miss Mary Jones, of Orange.

London—Jean Borotra, captain of the French Olympic lawn tennis team, said that he was given up the Wimbledon Champion Up Tight tournament unless he decided to play. He will enter the doubles with Rene Lacoste.

The Winchester caddies defeated the Belmont Club lads at the latter's course today, scoring eight points to their opponents' one, according to the Nassau system in three foursome ball contests.

Toronto—Lauren Upson of the Toronto Olympic team, who was defeated by Miss Helen Wills, national champion, at Forest Hill, will enter the Canadian championships at Toronto next week.

Paris—Both American entrants, Miss Adelaide Hawley, of Lake Forest, and Miss Helen Wills, champion of the United States, won their matches in the second round of the women's singles tennis tournament at the Olympic games today.

Semi-finals in the Tedesco Club golf tournament were played in the men's singles Bear defeated Dr. J. F. Mahoney, Dr. Sagendorf defeated Miss [illegible] in the women's singles 6 up 5 to play.

England—The British polo team which will play America for the international polo cup at Meadow Brook in September, was defeated today, 8 to 6, in their first match against the Ranelagh team.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner.

DR. MAHONEY

THIS moderate or excessive drinking is one thing causing the air sickness.

"Drink all the water you can, any time," recommends a friend. "Never drink water with meals," says another, "the water is terrible," declares a friend.

Remember you will not need to drink water if you eat moderately. Excessive water drinking is very detrimental. Don't do it for your health. Early and every twenty-four hours we lose on an average of 48 ounces through water that passes from our skin, then, either through the kidneys or through the pores of the skin.

It is necessary that we replenish this loss, but almost everything we eat contains a certain amount of water, while our coffee, tea, cocoa or milk is also largely made up of water.

There is one safe rule to follow in the drinking of water. Drink most of your water between meals.

An excess of water taken at one time tends to lower the temperature of the stomach, which is bad. Also, if the saliva or the gastric juices are largely diluted with water under the mistaken notion water during a meal digestion is considerably interfered with.

It is a bad rule to put any kind of a fluid in your mouth while eating, and there is no doubt that the ice water habit is pernicious. Also, the drinking of hot water under the mistaken notion that it prevents dyspepsia often leads to serious complications.

One safe rule to follow is to drink water at the temperature of the atmosphere, no matter what that temperature may be.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

My little boy has the whooping cough. I am all run down and have been told that, in the condition I am in, I am very likely to take it from him. I do not believe adults can get it but will you please tell if this is so. MRS. E. A. K.

Persons of all ages may be attacked by whooping cough, but the disease most commonly attacks children. This is due to the fact that the disease is so infectious that few persons reach youth and adult life without having been transmitted by an attack in childhood. An attack affords more or less complete protection against subsequent infection.

What can be done for various veins? Have been suffering from them for some time and cannot afford to give up work. O. A. N.

You should take as much rest as possible. Elevate the feet if possible, several times a day. Bandaging the legs before arising is helpful, if one must be on one's feet.

Would a mole on my body be likely to lead to cancer if it is not removed? Have been told that I should have it cut out. H. P. R.

Pigmented moles are often the starting place of malignant disease. Not all moles undergo that transformation, but all have the possibility of development and on the slightest sign or increase or irritation, you should consult your family physician or some reputable hospital or dispensary.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THE greatest trouble that some married couples have is trying to decide who's the boss around the house. The average husband always claims to be the whole cheese until his wife finds out about it.

VERY few women care who's the boss as long as they can run the house to suit themselves.

OF course a husband has a few rights, such as paying the rent, emptying the ashes and stalking off the tradespeople.

THE only time a husband is king is his own house is on the first of the month.

THIS is the one day that his wife lets him answer all door bells.

THEN after all the promises have been made, the wife again takes over the management of the bungalow.

SHE doesn't object to him thinking that he's the boss of the place as long as he keeps his thoughts to himself.

BUT only an amateur husband would mention the fact in public.

ONE husband who asserted his rights is now looking at life through different eyes. Both of them are black.

HE happened to be thinking out loud and his wife caught him.

SHE has him so scared now that he's even afraid to think.

HE'S got a mind of his own, but he doesn't dare use it.

BUT he's keeping it anyway in case anything ever happens to his wife's.

HE doesn't lead such a tough life at that; he can go anywhere his wife wants him to.

SO boys, whenever any of your friends ask you who's boss around the shack, you or your wife, tell them that you are, but ask them please not to mention it to her.

English." The child's education should begin in the cradle. One million two hundred and fifty thousand school children are partly deaf. Other millions suffer from underfeeding, the great health problem.

YOU CAN'T "teach English." The foundation of all education is ability to READ the English language easily and rapidly.

A child that reads easily has all knowledge spread out before it on library shelves. The rest depends on ambition. Jaures, long ago, explained that to the teachers of France.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD is to buy the El Paso & Southwestern, paying fifty-five millions. These "railroad combinations" will continue and soon all the golden eggs will be in one basket.

The group controlling the basket will control the people as completely as one microbe would control the human body if it had charge of all the veins and arteries.

HOWEVER, COMBINATION means economy, with railroads especially. If the people have brains enough to secure their share of the economy by supervision, combinations will at least prevent stupid, economic waste. Later the people will KNOW more and DO more than at present.

HIGHLAND PARK LOTS POPULAR AT REVERE

A most gratifying demand for home building sites, which has been continuous since the opening of the season, is that of the Revere development, known as Highland Park.

This property is adjacent to the Boston and Lynn highway in the south part of Revere, being conveniently located to the business centre and trolley lines on Broadway.

High elevation favors the property. From this vantage point Suburban Boston is seen at its best.

It is the intention of the Park Land Company, No. 15 School street, Boston, which is handling this successful development to extend its present co-operation and assistance to the future home-site buyers as in the past.

"Can Chickie" come back? Sequel starts in "American" Monday July 7.

Editor Helping Hand:

I am so sick lan hardly write and expect m baby soon. I have cried myd to sleep thinking of the thip I need so badly and can't have. I did so hope the little girls could have some little old toys to pass the time while I was in the hospital. I never left them before. If a so little I have for the coming little one and I don't know how I can get shirts. They say the shop is going flat and we will be hard hit. I don't know what I am going to put around baby to bring her home in either. I never thought of that. Please do what you can for me. J. E. S.

FIST FIGHT DURING SALISBURY RAID

Salisbury Beach, July 3.—A fist fight between patrons of the Venetian Gardens and Federal Prohibition agents from Boston figured in a raid here, when sixteen cases of beer were seized by the Federal authorities and Chief of Police Harold Condon.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

No fewer than 109 industrial and 25 railroad companies have improved their dividend payments to stockholders during the six months just ended.

No other half-year in America's history ever matched this record.

The many-odd millions of extra dollars thus distributed among hundreds of thousands of stockholders, supplementing the other millions saved for ourselves by the 25 per cent. reduction in income tax payments, should mean very substantial increase in the public's buying power, a fact worth emphasizing when pessimists are whining over the outlook.

The shower of dividend and interest checks which are raining upon American security holders this week, representing July 1 disbursements, has thrice or more been exceeded in previous years, though January 1 payments ever-times are more generous.

The second quarter has not quite maintained the dividend showing of the first quarter, but the industrial world, but the railroads have done distinctly better than they did in the first three months of the year.

Here is the monthly record of favorable dividend action, omitting some items announced and action taken on industrial and railroad companies:

	Industrial Increases	Railroad Increases
January	15	2
February	18	2
March	12	4
April	10	4
May	23	8
June	31	5
Total	109	25

During the six months the favorable action taken most often by corporation directors has consisted of the payment of extra dividends. More than a hundred non-railroad companies have paid extra dividends, while seven railroads figured in the list. Increased dividends have been paid by fifty-five industrial and eight railroad companies. No fewer than eight of seven industrial companies announced their first dividend distributions to stockholders also five railroads. Compilation made for this column shows following:

	Industrials	Railroads
Extra Dividends	107	7
Increased Dividends	55	8
Initial Dividends	7	5
Back Dividends	2	—
Stock Dividends	25	—
Resumed Dividends	3	—
Special Dividends	4	—
Extra or Increased Dividends	2	—
Total	206	25

These figures constitute a strong answer to those who complain that business for this year has been quiet and unprofitable. Apparently a great many managements have been able despite difficulties to show earnings justifying more generous treatment of their stockholders.

So you see that the United States is not going bankrupt.

PRICES STEADY IN NEW YORK TRADING

Prices were steady to irregular in the New York Stock Exchange, and trading fell off sharply, failing to present a rallying point or pearance.

Public Utilities showed strength with a half-dozen touching new peak prices for 1924. American Water Works was on record at 63, West Penn Power at 93, Columbia Gulf & West Indies was up a point to a fresh top.

Railroad shares up a fraction. Illinois Central, Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific were among the leaders.

General Motors as it usually does, was the feature.

General Baking broke points, Atlantic Refining 2¾, and Sinclair Forte and Matheson Alkali 2 each. Still more were down a point.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, American Thread issues were most active, on the rise, to a new high. Eastern S. S. lifted 2 Point or more. Mergenthaler & Mergenthaler & Manx and Edison

Hearst Five Years Ago Urged This League Referendum Plank

(Reprinted From the Boston American of September 27, 1919)

Let People Themselves Say What They Want Done With the League

Editor of the Boston American:

WILL you please make editorials urging that the question of this League of Nations be referred to the people to be decided by referendum vote?

Three questions should be submitted:

First, the question of ratifying the covenant as Mr. Wilson brought it over, unaltered.

Second, the question of ratifying the covenant as it shall be amended by the Senate.

Third, the question of rejecting the whole proposition and keeping entirely free from entangling alliances with European nations, according to the injunction of the Fathers.

Personally, I am in favor of this last proposition, and I think the majority of the people of the country are in favor of it. But no one knows what the majority of the people of the country are in favor of.

Mr. Wilson surely has not reached the point where he is indifferent to the will of the people, and he should like to know whether the people approve of his plan or not.

The Senate should also like to know whether its amendments are indorsed by the public or not.

And the people should be given an opportunity themselves to decide whether or not they want to depart from the policy of no entangling alliances with foreign nations established by Washington, indorsed by Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland, and practically all of the great men of American history, but rejected by President Wilson.

This matter profoundly affects the people of the United States, and in any genuine democracy the people should have the right to determine by their votes what policy the nation shall pursue when their welfare and the nation's welfare are so seriously affected, and when the question of a reversal of a policy established by the wisest of our statesmen, maintained for 140 years and proven successful by the uninterrupted and unexampled growth of the nation and prosperity of the people, is at issue.

As a matter of fact, the questions of making war, and of making peace should rightly belong to the people themselves and should not be delegated to any representatives, who may, through vanity, or arrogance, or prejudice, or family associations, or sectional affiliations, or racial or religious bigotries, decide such vital questions on some other basis than the best interests of the people and the greatest security and prosperity of the nation.

Furthermore, there is no wisdom as great as the collective wisdom of the people. So that, not only from the point of view of the people's welfare but from the standpoint of the greatest wisdom and the greatest good, the people can best decide these questions, and should, in a genuine democracy, be allowed to decide on them.

We have heard a great deal about establishing democracy throughout the world, but we have seen no disposition to extend democracy here at home, to make our own institutions more democratic and more truly and immediately expressive of the will of the people.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Democratic Party Wisely Cuts League Out of Coming Election

Mr. Hearst's signed editorial of September 26, 1919, reprinted above, anticipated by four years and nine months the League of Nations plank in the new platform of the Democratic Party.

The platform declares:

"The Democratic Party pledges all its energies to the outlawing of the whole war system. We refuse to believe that the wholesale slaughter of human beings on the battlefield is any more necessary to man's highest development than killing by individuals.

"The only hope for world peace and for economic recovery lies in the organized efforts of sovereign nations co-operating to remove the cause of war and to substitute law and order for violence."

After approving the League of Nations in principle, the Democratic platform binds itself not to attempt to get us into the league until the people, in a special election, have a chance to vote whether they want to go in or not. It reads:

"It is desirable, wise and necessary to lift this question out of party politics, and to that end to take the sense of the American people at a referendum election, advisory to the government, to be held officially under act of Congress, free from all other questions and candidacies, after ample time for full consideration and discussion throughout the country, upon the question, in substance as follows:

"'Shall the United States become a member of the League of Nations, upon such reservations or amendments to the covenant of the league as the President and the Senate of the United States may agree upon?'

"Immediately upon an affirmative vote, we will carry out such mandate."

Likewise, of course, the Democratic Party, if a negative vote is rendered by the people, will carry out the mandate of the people not to try to get us into the league.

The Hearst newspapers have not opposed the League of Nations because we do not love peace. For years these papers have advocated an international agreement by which each nation would bind itself not to declare war—except in defence against aggression—until the common people of the country had a chance to go to the ballot box and vote for war or against it.

The Hearst newspapers have fought the League of Nations precisely because it was not a League of Peace, but is a league of international financiers and of greedy European nations, calling upon the whole world to guarantee them their spoils from the European war.

There was a "great and solemn referendum" on the league, as President Wilson called it, in the Presidential election of 1920. Seven million more voters then declared against the league than for it.

Everyone interpreted that vote as meaning that the people of the United States affirmed their determination not to mingle in the obligations and conspiracies and conflicts of Europe—to keep free from "entangling alliances," as Washington originally phrased it.

Today, four years later, the pro-Leaguers want another referendum. They should have it. The Democratic Party is very wise in avoiding the fatal mistake it made in 1924, when it tied up the league referendum with the Presidential election and was hopelessly beaten.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

Helen Rowland

TRUE Lord made woman weaker, smaller and tenderer than a man — and then gave her about three-quarters of the Intuition in the world with which to defend herself.

* * *

Intuition is that sixth sense that enables a woman always and a man sometimes — to "sniff" trouble ahead and dodge it, to step on the gas or put on the brakes just in time to avoid a casualty.

* * *

Before marriage a man is willing to grant that it is "intuition" which makes a woman "understand" him; but after marriage he won't admit that it is anything but "suspicion" that enables her to "see through him."

* * *

Intuition is that instinct which enables a woman to tell, just by the sound of a man's whistling, whether he is worried about something at the office, or more because he didn't like what she gave him for breakfast.

* * *

Intuition is that "hunch" which prompts a girl to stop talking and gaze dreamily at the moon at the psychological moment—and inspires a man to reach for his hat and suddenly remember a prior engagement at the same dangerous instant.

* * *

Intuition is that inward monitor which causes a woman to keep deadly quiet and refrain from asking questions when a man is hunting for the trouble in the car or trying to shave with a dull razor—and impels a man to curb his grouch and refrain from airy persiflage when he sees his wife sit down to the table all fussed and hot.

* * *

Intuition is the "hunch" that a man has when he decides that it is time to ask a girl to marry him before the other fellow beats him to it—and that actuates a girl when she decides that it is time to accept him before he stops proposing.

* * *

Intuition is the cold chill that runs up and down a man's back when he feels that his wife's eyes are on him and the blonde next to him) at a dinner party.

* * *

Intuition is the instinct that makes a woman cease nagging when she suspects that her husband has taken about all that he's going to stand for—and prompts a man to change his tack when he suspects that his wife is about to scuttle the ship.

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

Has Seven, Expects Another

Editor Helping Hand:

I have seven children, and am looking forward to a newcomer. I've never had to ask for help before, as I've tried so hard to get along the best I could. My husband works, but his wages are small for the large family. If some good person has some infant's clothes, would they kindly think of me? Or anything for the other children. My boys are 15 and 3 years old, and the girls are 12, 11, 9, 5 years and 15 months. If someone has a stroller I wish I might have it, as my baby doesn't walk and my three-year-old boy is weak, and I have to borrow a carriage when I go out. MRS. A.

Dresses and Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some dresses and a light-weight coat suitable for a girl about thirteen which I will gladly give to anyone you may designate. Will send parcel post or if near enough you might ask them to call. MRS. L. F. D.

Thank you. We have sent the address of Helen, who is just thirteen, and have written her asking her to call if possible.

For Small Woman

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a number of things for a small woman, size 34, also slippers, size 5. Would be glad to send them post paid anywhere. I think your work quite splendid. Good luck! MRS. M. R.

Thank you for your offer and the good wishes. You are being sent the address of A. A., a young working girl, who makes only seven dollars a week and wears just the size clothing and shoes you offer.

Had Much Sickness

Editor Helping Hand:

Hope I am not asking too much, but as we have had so much sickness and my husband works only three days a week, it takes all he earns to pay rent and our doctor bill. If I could get some clothes for the children or myself I would be so thankful. The children are a little girl four years old and boys seven and ten. MRS. T. H.

Other Offers

The editor wishes to express her sincere appreciation to the following people for their generous offers of assistance to those in need. They have been sent the addresses requested:

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

SOME years ago our grandsires sailed across the rolling ocean, because in their home towns they'd failed, according to their notion. They climbed into a little boat with quarters far from cozy; but so that craft could keep afloat, they thought the prospect rosy. For, back across the shining sea, they'd had too many bosses; said they: "We're bent on liberty, regardless of its crosses. We dare not call our souls our own in Europe's dismal regions; so ho! for any other zone, although its risks are legion!" Right joyfully they settled down, to live a life of freedom; they urged: "No laws in our town, because no one will need 'em." But years went on, as years will do, in swift succession flowing; those settlers made one law, then two, and then got fairly going. And never was there so much crime in any age of nation, as when those chaps worked overtime in eager legislation. They picked the culprits up in flocks so fast that they grew dizzy; congestion reigned at all the stocks and ducking-stools were busy. Then came one braver than the rest, who said: "Your ways are rotten! what brought you sailing to the west? Have you no scan forgotten?" Then all the judges in the land rose up with one motion. Quoth they: "You cannot understand; what a fantastic notion! Across the seas we were oppressed, we left for rightful causes."

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE GOOD OLD DAYS

By Dr. Frank Crane

A SYMBOLIC event took place the other day when the Queen of Belgium walked up to the ballot box and dropped in her vote.

It was noticed by most newspaper readers with a cursive smile, and possibly mentioned over the coffee cups as a picturesque item, but really it was significant and worth turning over in the mind.

It marks the utter passage of the old order. Kings and Queens and all the Lord's anointed are certainly not what they used to be.

Imagine Abdul the Damned or Louis the Magnificent waiting in line at the polls, or picture the Prussian Kaiser or the Russian Czar standing up to be counted!

Sometimes we grow peevish and inclined to think the old world is getting sour, that it's the twilight of the gods, the rich own the earth and little son Tommy is entering upon a world game with the cards stacked against him.

Where are our liberties? we ask, and it's Oh for the good old merry days so light and gay!

Then a little thing like a Queen voting brings us up with a jerk.

And there comes to mind what we have read:

Of grand seigneurs of Bourbon days deflowering a mother's child, flinging the horror-stricken parent a purse of gold and riding away singing rataplan, rataplan,

Of noble lords of Charles Stuart's day ordering his bullies to flog the impertinent tradesman for daring to send in his bill,

Of Richard's summary command, "Off with his head!" and then chortle, "So much for Buckingham!"

Of Le Roi Soleil, the magnificent old lecher who lounged through the barbaric splendors of Versailles, played with wantons at Trianon, and said, "The State? I am the State," neither did anybody deny him,

Of the imperious Hapsburgs riding down peasant children in the street, and insulting ladies in the cafe while their escorts stood respectfully at attention,

Of Russian Grand Dukes flogging moujiks for daring to complain of sickness, and Cossacks shooting down the assembled people who had the temerity to present a petition,

Of slave drivers tying black men to whipping posts and selling their little ones into bondage,

Of all the cruel, dirty, cowardly and unjust antics of privileged scoundrels and crowned perverts,

Of all the unhung rascals upon thrones that, haloed by superstition, exalted by tradition and protected by soldiers, have trampled their gluttonous way through honest human wheat, defiling what they could not destroy.

And of how children were taught to honor them, how bishops consecrated them, how decent men accepted them as a matter of course and struggled for their favors,

How Goethe lived upon a noble's bounty like any lackey, Mozart cooled his heels like a milliner's maid in the antechamber of simpering duchesses that his divine genius might get a hearing,

Of how for long centuries, from generation to generation, mankind has been bilked, bunco'ed and browbeaten by the ancient delusion of hereditary nobility,

And then when we see Her Royal Highness voting, alongside the milkman's wife and the grocer's clerk,

We are forced to conclude that the world does move, and that in spite of the fact

That the banker lives in a fine house and we live in a walkup flat,

That Mary Pickford makes a thousand dollars or so a day while our Rachel works harder and only gets fifteen a week,

That Wall Street gentlemen control millions while we have difficulty in holding our jobs,

In fine, that some are still rich and dress in purple and fine linen, and fare sumptuously every day, while others must hustle mightily to pay the rent—

In spite of it all, and for a' that and a' that, it's a better world than it was,

Children have a better chance and shed fewer tears,

Young men and maidens have cleaner dreams and a finer romance,

It's no such disgrace and stigma as it used to be to be a workingman,

That the winds of liberty blow free, from the Statue of Liberty to the Golden Gate,

And that altogether out of the blood and grime and dust and disease of the Past there is pushing up the white flower of Hope.

Anyhow, it's not so bad as it was.

The Queen votes.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON WHY KILL ALLIES?

By GARRETT P. SERVISS,
Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

A CAT never kills an insect. Many cats are afraid of insects. So are many dogs. I have seen a dog that would attack a cornered fighting woodchuck as big as himself run away from a black beetle. The true and fearless foes of insects are birds. And they are friends to man in exact proportion to their destructiveness to the insect world.

Loving trees and shrubs and flowering plants and the glories of gardens, I am distressed when I see the multiplying number of cats that haunt the suburban neighborhood where I live, killing and driving away the birds—birds which are the defenders of my plants and bushes and young trees. I do not know that the dogs kill any birds, but they, too, are a nuisance when they foregather in the neighborhood and forget the rules of decent behavior which no doubt they obey at home.

But worse than cats, and more objectionable than dogs, when the "shooting season" comes, are the men and boys who go about the country and the fields slaughtering the birds with guns. This is called "sport." I have known a man grow hot with indignation when a protest was made against the shooting of field birds.

The shooters were within their rights; the season was legally open; for his part he wanted his boys to learn how to use firearms; it was a part of the necessary education of all young citizens; it was a first step in military preparedness; as objectors, they were mere sentimentalists; what was the good of birds, anyway; hadn't the State governments and local authorities often encouraged the shooting of sparrows? Didn't the birds eat up the berries and rob the cornfields?

It did no good to point out to this man that the killing of a particular species of sparrows (the "English sparrow") had at times been authorized for the purpose of saving the native birds, whom they were driving away by their pugnacious and quarrelsome habits. It took him aback for a minute because he had not thought of that, but soon he was ready to maintain that all birds were alike, marauders, and proper game for shotguns.
